Cabinet Split Into 3 Groups On Emergency Financial Plan

Daladier Is Opposed
To Most Drastic Measures

DETAILS SECRET

Members Meet in Hope
Reaching Agreement
On Problem

BULLETIN

Paris—The French cabinet split into three groups today over the emergency financial plan proposed by the government. The group headed by Prime Minister Paul Reynaud, which includes the majority of the cabinet, is in favor of the plan. The group headed by Minister of Finance Charles Daladier is opposed to the most drastic measures. The group headed by Minister of War Louis Faidherbe is in the middle.

Chamberlain Wants Pact With Italy Put Into Effect; Seeks Economic Peace With Germany

COMEDIAN DIES

Malibu Beach, Calif. — (AP)—The film colony and a world of fans today mourned one of the screen's top comedians, bespectacled, cigar-chewing wisecracker, Robert Woolsey, 49, (above). Death came to the elder member of the Wheeler and Woolsey team at his beach home here yesterday, after an 18-month illness which had forced his retirement from pictures.

London—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain asked the house of commons today to approve early enforcement of the Anglo-Italian accord of April 16 and made a bid for economic peace with Germany in southeastern Europe.

At the same time he formally announced that Sir John Anderson, 56-year old "iron man of Bengal," and new lord privy seal, also would be minister for civilian defense, taking charge of both air raid precautions and arrangements for a "national voluntary service."

The prime minister first called for debate tomorrow on his proposal to seal the Easter pact with Premier Mussolini "as soon as possible."

Then replying to opposition attacks on the consequences of the peace of Munich he insisted "there is room both for Germany and us in trading with southeastern Europe."

Against "Compulsion"

Outlining Sir John's new functions, he reiterated his opposition to peacetime conscription of the nation's manpower for defense, declaring "there will be no conscription. The government is satisfied that it is desirable and practicable to meet the needs of civilian defense by voluntary action suitably guided and organized."

Chamberlain said he had decided against establishment of a ministry of supply to speed re-armament because it would dislocate industry unnecessarily. He also asserted that Britain was not planning to equip her army on a continental scale.

Of Germany's drive to the southeast he said:

"We have no desire to block Germany from this country or that or to encircle her economically. It is true we have certain trade interests there ourselves and of course we mean to maintain them. . . .

"Don't let us suppose there must be economic warfare between ourselves and Germany. There may be some competition, but competition is a thing we have thrived on in the past and it is not in our interest to see any part of the world remain poor."

No Armaments Race

The prime minister said amid cheers that "there is nothing further from our mind than entry upon a new armaments race."

"I repeat categorically," he asserted, "that we have no aggressive intentions against Germany or any other country. As to the suggestion that our armaments are inconsistent with peaceful intentions, I do not know why any different standards should be applied to this country in that respect than to other countries."

That was interpreted as an answer to German and Italian expressions of suspicion that Britain agreed to the Munich peace only to gain time to arm for a punitive war.

Railroads May Accept Help, Drop Pay Cut

Strike Possibility Ignored
At Present. Spokesman Says

WILL MEET FRIDAY

Roosevelt Assured Effort
Will be Made to End Problem

Washington—(AP)—Hints that the railroads might accept federal aid as an alternative to wage cuts in their search for economic relief came today from management officials.

"A railroad strike is so far, far away in my opinion," H. A. Enoch, chairman of the management's wage committee said with a smile, "that there's no use to get worried about it."

J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, also grinned when he told reporters that any strike was "at least 30 days away."

Pelley asked heads of leading roads to meet in Chicago Friday to accept or reject cancellation of a 15 per cent pay reduction. President Roosevelt's fact-finding board recommended Saturday that the roads drop that proposal.

Some 800,000 union railroad workers have voted to strike rather than accept the cut, but under the railway labor act they can not walk out until Nov. 28.

Hope for Settlement

Representatives of labor and management assured Mr. Roosevelt yesterday they would attempt to reach a peaceful settlement of the wage controversy. In turn they received the president's offer of vigorous support for legislation to help the carriers.

Mr. Roosevelt talked separately with Pelley and George Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association.

They said afterward that the president suggested a joint committee representing labor and management might try to draft remedial legislation for congressional consideration.

Pelley referred to a six-point program approved by the railroad association. It includes revision of the interstate commerce commission's rate-making procedure, low-rate government loans, abolition of reduced government freight rates, repeal of the long and short haul rate law, and new regulation of water transportation.

Officials of the national mediation board expressed confidence the railroads would comply with the emergency board's recommendations. They pointed out that in the past both sides customarily have accepted such conclusions.

Lack of Funds May End Quiz, Dies Asserts

Chairman Not Optimistic About Getting More Money

APPEALS IGNORED

Newspaper Man in Radio
Attack on House Committee

Washington—(AP)—Chairman Dies (D-Texas) said today the house committee on un-American activities may have to end its hearings soon because its $25,000 expense fund was running low.

Since President Roosevelt and members of his administration have taken some verbal digs at the committee, Dies was none too hopeful of getting more cash after congress meets in January.

The $25,000 would have gone farther, the chairman indicated in a radio address last night, had government departments supplied lawyers, investigators, stenographers and clerks in accordance with the house resolution ordering the investigation.

He said, however, that appeals to the justice and labor departments, the WPA and finally to the president had brought no results.

In fact, he added, Secretary Perkins and Secretary Interior Ickes joined "certain radical writers" in a campaign "to discredit the committee by ridicule and misrepresentation."

"Shocking Unfair"

By arrangement of the Democratic National committee, Paul Y. Anderson, Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Star-Times, followed Dies on the air. Anderson said he had seen some "slipshod" and "shockingly unfair" congressional investigations but declared none had approached the Dies committee's hearings in either of those respects.

"Some of the most fantastic yarns ever heard outside of an insane asylum," he added, "are gravely accepted by the committee without the faintest effort to discover whether the witnesses are credible or responsible or whether they are actuated by ulterior motives."

Anderson said the committee used an "extraordinary presentation and manipulation of witnesses" for political effect, regardless of "the damage the truth suffers in the process."

Dies contended, on the other hand, that every person or organization against whom charges were made in hearings had an invitation to appear before the committee.

He added:

"The very fact that only a small number of the hundreds of people and organizations who have been charged with subversive activities have sought an opportunity to appear before the committee or to file affidavits is strong proof that most of the testimony we have received is reliable."

Withdrawal of Henry May be Part of Probe

Dewey Will Serve Full Term if He's Elected to Office

Boardman Says Decision Is Up to Special Counsel

QUIZ IS URGED

Buffalo, N. Y. —(AP)—Republican gubernatorial nominee Thomas E. Dewey declared today he would "certainly" serve a full four-year term if elected governor of New York.

Manhattan's district attorney made his declaration in a press conference in answer to reported Democratic statements that he would seek the presidency in 1940 if he were successful in the gubernatorial race.

Dewey was asked:

"Will you serve your full term regardless of what happens in other fields?"

"Certainly," he replied. "I have spent eight years in New York county on one job. (He referred to his service as assistant United States attorney, next as a special racket prosecutor and now as district attorney). That job in New York county is mainly finished. It will take at least four years to revitalize the government of the state."

Dewey did not mention the presidency specifically but nodded when his attention was called to the words "at least four years." The next presidential election is in 1940.

Boardman Says Decision Is Up to Special Counsel

Madison—(AP)—Assistant Attorney General Newell S. Boardman said today special state counsel would decide whether Robert K. Henry's withdrawal as the Democratic candidate for governor should be investigated in connection with charges of campaign irregularities on file against Julius P. Heil, the Republican candidate for governor.

Boardman said he received today from Edward Ihlenfeldt, of West Allis, a request that the attorney general's office call Henry for questioning on his reason for retiring from the race. Yesterday John B. Chapple, Ashland editor, told Boardman that Henry's withdrawal was part of a plot to put the former state treasurer up as Republican candidate for United States senator in 1940.

Ihlenfeldt's petition and Chapple's statement will be turned over to special state counsel, Boardman said.

Won Democratic Race

Henry, of Jefferson, was the coalitionist candidate for governor. He was nominated by the Democratic party, but lost the Republican nomination to Julius P. Heil, Milwaukee, against whom Chapple has filed charges under the corrupt practices act.

Chapple charged Heil and his supporters, through an offer to pay him $2,600 for 26 speeches, tried to get him to withdraw as an independent "Townsend Republican" candidate for United States senator, thereby seeking to eliminate opposition to Alexander Wiley, Chippewa Falls, the Republican primary winner. Ihlenfeldt had previously complained that Heil's campaign expenses exceeded the legal limit.

Up to Council

Boardman said Arthur W. Kopp, Madisonville, and William H. Spohn, Plattville, appointed special counsel yesterday by Attorney General Orland S. Loomis to handle proceedings against Heil, would decide whether Henry should be questioned regarding his motives for withdrawing.

The two attorneys were to confer with Boardman today. The assistant attorney said he would turn over to them all information that has come to him in the last month in messages from and conferences with Chapple and Ihlenfeldt.

Ihlenfeldt was defeated for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. The party's state central committee named State Senator Harry Bolens, of Port Washington, as its candidate following Henry's refusal to make the race.

BOLENS' PROTEST

Milwaukee—(AP)—Harry Bolens, Democratic candidate for governor, wired the attorney general today asking "why waste taxpayers' money to appoint political favorites as special prosecutors when your office should be able to do the work" of investigating charges Julius P. Heil, Republican candidate, had violated the corrupt practices act.

Bolens' wire also made reference to the political use of the old age pension list and charged Governor LaFollette was the beneficiary of it.

"I therefore demand that the investigation should extend to include violations of the corrupt practices act, if any, by Phil LaFollette, and obviate the necessity of a senatorial investigation, which will follow if you fail in the performance of your duty," the wire added.

Chinese Council Assures Support To Chiang in War

'Final Objective' Must be Won. Generalissimo
Declares

Chungking, China—(AP)—Full support of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's declared purpose to continue the war against Japan was voted today by the people's political council, representing all major elements of the nation.

This action was taken after publication of a statement by the generalissimo declaring "there can be no end of the war until the final objective is won."

"Better a broken jade (semi-precious stone highly valued in China) rather than a whole tile," Chiang concluded.

China's main base for military resistance does not lie in the coastal or river regions," he said, "but in the vast hinterland, especially the western provinces. This has been our fundamental strategy in planning prolonged resistance."

The generalissimo, China's military and civil leader, was believed to be near the front west of Hankow, captured by the Japanese a week ago.

The people's political council, formed several months ago to increase popular participation in the internal war-time government, is holding its quarterly meeting in this provisional capital. It consists of 180 members, including members of the Kuomintang (government) and communist parties and representatives of banking, industrial, educational and religious interests.

The generalissimo said China's war was revolutionary and that it was fought under military leadership, such as confronted the American and other revolutions which achieved success.

Producing Less No Way to Get Ahead, Philip Hanna Says

Financial Editor Is Speaker at First Forum Meeting

Scoring the philosophy of "trying to get ahead by producing less," Philip S. Hanna, editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, told 200 members of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and three service clubs yesterday noon at the Conway hotel that "we are just getting a good old-fashioned dose of economic castor oil."

Hanna, who spoke at the first forum meeting of the year sponsored by the chamber in cooperation with Lions, Kiwanis, and Rotary clubs, said that the "country isn't going to hell but just going through hell."

Conditions aren't any too good, Hanna said, but "if certain restraining influences are swept away and we ever cut loose, I think we can pay debts back more rapidly than after the world war."

Hanna declared that what American business men want is a return of the times when one could invest money and when business was working independently of the government.

"Government is gradually encroaching on the field of private business," the financial writer said. "And it is using the money taken from the profits of private business. The government is taking money away from you to put you out of business. There may be a Turn to page 2 col. 6

Appleton State, Dale Banks Merge Under One Charter

Consolidation Is Effected
After Two-Thirds Vote
Of Stockholders

Consolidation of the Appleton State bank and the Farmers and Merchants bank of Dale, with branches at Fremont, Hortonville and Shiocton, was effected at meetings of the boards of directors last night, according to B. J. Zuehlke, president of the Appleton State bank.

The merger was approved today by the state banking commission. Zuehlke said. The same officers and employees will be retained at the Dale bank and its branches, he added.

The consolidated firm will provide the larger banking facilities and service of a larger bank for both the Appleton unit and the Dale bank and its branches. The firm began operation today under the Appleton State bank charter with a capital of $200,000, a surplus of $200,000 and deposits totaling about $400,000.

Assets of the Dale bank and its branches were transferred to the Appleton State bank through the consolidation and the new firm now is an insured bank under the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation the bank president said.

The banks were consolidated after a two-thirds vote of the stockholders of each institution last night. Stockholders of the Black Creek bank, which was invited to join the new corporation, refused the plan with less than the required two-thirds vote.

Child Labor Issue May Go to Court

Future of Amendment
Likely to Depend on Tribunal's Decision

Washington—(AP)—The supreme court may decide whether the Roosevelt administration will ask congress to submit to the states a new child labor amendment.

The court has before it an appeal from a Kentucky court decision that the constitutional amendment pending since 1924 is dead because more than one-fourth of the states have rejected it.

The case arose from the fact that the Kentucky legislature rejected the amendment in 1926, but reconsidered and ratified it in January, 1937. The Kentucky court of appeals called the reconsideration illegal.

Twenty-eight states have ratified the amendment, which would give congress the right to regulate labor of persons under 18. If the supreme court holds that the amendment is not dead, eight more states must give their approval in order to make it effective.

Should the supreme court agree that the amendment no longer is pending, the administration would have a choice of standing on the provisions of the present wage-hour act, of seeking to strengthen these standards by additional legislation, or of asking congress to submit to the states a new amendment.

Issue Indictment In Dairy Inquiry

Grand Jury Asks Judge to Delay Action Until
Nov. 15

Chicago—(AP)—After nearly four months of questioning officials of large dairy concerns and examining hundreds of exhibits, a special federal grand jury returned an indictment today and was discharged. The jury requested that Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson suppress the indictment until Nov. 15.

Although the jury was called to inquire into whether a monopoly existed in the dairy industry, the word "milk" was not mentioned at any time during the minute or two that the jury was in court.

The inquiry was directed by Leo F. Tierney, assistant United States attorney general, and a corps of aids assisted by Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney of Chicago.

Investigation was ordered by the department of justice, which reported federal detectives had worked for a year, seeking evidence of possible violation of the anti-trust statutes.

Confabs Please Utility Leader

Implications of Far-Reaching Significance, He Says

Washington—(AP)—Clarence E. Groesbeck, chairman of the Electric Bond and Share corporation said after a White House conference today that the "approachement between the government and the utilities is most heartening and its implications are of far-reaching national significance."

Groesbeck, talking with reporters after his half-hour session with President Roosevelt, added:

"We need only recall the negotiations between the national defense power committee and the utilities, culminated at the meeting here last Friday, to realize that mutual understanding and cooperation has advanced beyond the theoretical stage."

"The successful outcome of those negotiations should point the way to working out a satisfactory understanding with government of the other problems of the industry."

Groesbeck referred to the agreement last week whereby the private power concerns, with federal financial assistance, will proceed with a $2,000,000 expansion program to fit in with new national defense plans.

The test was begun with issuance of a warrant charging Mayor Silberman, operator of a camp, with violation of the municipal building code. The charge carries a penalty, upon conviction, of $100 fine or six months in the house of correction.

Gurda listed what he said were five violations of the building code. There are 50 trailers within the city, the building inspector's office estimated.

Charges Espionage Case Is Result of 'Frameup'

New York—(AP)—An accusation that the German espionage trial now proceeding in federal court was the result of a "frameup" was made today by George C. Dix, counsel for Fraulein Johanna Hofmann, one of the three persons on trial.

"Charge that there was a frame-up and corruption on the part of the government in this case," said Dix, turning angrily to Judge John Knox when government attorneys objected to his cross-examination of Reed Vetterli, former special agent of the federal bureau of investigation in New York.

The prosecution contended that Vetterli's testimony, which dealt with a statement signed by Otto Hermann Voss, another defendant, did not affect Dix's client.

Dix, in his opening statement at the start of the trial, asserted Fraulein Hofmann was "framed" by Leon G. Turrow, former F. B. I. agent who was in charge of the espionage investigation.

Farley and Landon In Argument Over New Deal Policies

Take Opposite Viewpoints On Business Improvement

By the Associated Press
Democratic Chairman James A. Farley and Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, were in disagreement today over the relation of New Deal policies to business improvement.

Landon told a political rally last night at Bartlesville, Okla., that men and governors next Tuesday would be "an important step in leading the way back to economic improvement."

Continued experimentation with the nation's finances, he said, is "the one thing that is holding back prosperity."

Farley, on the other hand, said in an endorsement of the California Democratic ticket that business was better everywhere, constituting "a complete answer to the wailing prophecies of those who are attempting to discourage the New Deal."

Wallace Raps Dewey
His speeches, starting a heavy week of campaigning by both major parties, shared attention with criticism by Secretary Wallace of Thomas E. Dewey, Republican candidate for governor of New York.

A statement by Wallace asserted Dewey had not told the whole truth to a Litchfield, N. Y., audience Friday in saying farm income had not risen in New York as much as in the remainder of the country. Dewey failed to mention Wallace said, that farm income in the state had not fallen as far from 1929 to 1932 as it did through the nation.

President Roosevelt made his first endorsement of a New York candidate, praising Senator Robert F. Wagner in a letter as "a great liberal."

The New York Times, independent Democratic paper which backed Wagner six years ago, announced it would support John Lord O'Brien, his Republican opponent, and Edward Corsi, Republican candidate for the unexpired term of the late Senator Royal S. Copeland. The New York Daily News, independent tabloid which has favored the New Deal, endorsed Wagner and Representative James M. Mead, Corsi's Democratic opponent. Both newspapers have endorsed Governor Herbert H. Lehman over Dewey.

Answers Roosevelt
In Pennsylvania Judge Arthur H. James, Republican nominee for governor, replied to criticism from President Roosevelt, who had charged James with misrepresentation in saying the chief executive had refrained from taking part in the Pennsylvania campaign in order not to put his hands in "muddy water."

James reiterated that there was no other inference when Mr. Roosevelt did not come to Pennsylvania after being photographed at Hyde Park with the state Democratic candidates.

"I have said it, and I repeat it," he added, "that the present Democratic candidates are not running on their own reputations."

Democratic Chairman Farley's endorsement of Culbert Olson and Sheridan Downey for governor and senator, respectively, in California followed a presidential letter praising Downey as a "real liberal."

Farley predicted a Democratic victory and said of Olson:

"To be sure our political foes call him a radical, along with the other eminent Democrat, Sheridan Downey. . . . Do not let this name-calling worry you. In the minds—or rather the propaganda—of the minority party we are all anarchists."

In his Bartlesville speech, Landon declared the country must choose in the next two elections whether it will remain a democracy or become a fascist state.

"We can not vest too much power in a few individuals as we have now and remain a representative democracy," he said.

He asserted the Roosevelt administration had failed to remedy economic ills even though it "has had the most complete control over congress and the 48 states of any party in our history."

Farmer, Son Kill Two Wolves, Get Bounties

The two men went on the wolf hunt after about 30 sheep were found killed recently in the neighborhood of the Wing farm. Doctrines down the two wolves which were about by the hunters.

The bounties were paid by L. J. Steiger, county clerk.

TAKES NEW POST

The appointment of Eugene B. Finegan as chief traffic officer of the Milwaukee road, effective today, has been announced by H. A. Scandrett, trustee for the railroad.

A native of Wisconsin, Finegan has been assistant chief traffic officer since May of this year and before that was freight traffic manager. He is the father-in-law of William Van Nortwick, Jr., former Appleton resident, who was recently married at Oak Park, Ill.

Bolens Says Debate Challenge Ignored By Both Opponents
Milwaukee—(U)—State Senator Harry W. Bolens, Democratic candidate for governor, told a group of party workers last night that he had challenged his opponents to debate and had been ignored by both.

"Of course," Bolens said, "I can excuse Julius Heil, because all he can talk about is that he was born on a farm and was a mechanic. But I will not excuse Governor LaFollette, because he has had the reins of our state government and should know something about it."

Bolens denied LaFollette's charge that he was an obstructionist in the legislature, and attacked tactics of "LaFollette's associates" in "pushing" bills through the legislature.

"One of the worst pieces of legislation put over," he said, "was the 'little Wagner act,' which has resulted in unnecessary cost by duplicating the national Wagner act, in face of the claim made by every Progressive and liberal that the Wagner act needs amendment."

Asserts Progressives Preserving Democracy
Dodgeville, Wis.—(U)—Governor Philip LaFollette, campaigning for reelection, said last night that "intelligent, orderly progress" as expressed in the Progressive party's program is "our greatest bulwark against fascism, communism or dictatorship in any form."

"Democracy," LaFollette said, "flourishes when its leadership is alert and responsive to the will and needs of the people. When it degenerates into factional party squabbling, it fails to meet vital public problems and falls easy prey to the demagogic harangues of a dictator."

"Progressives of Wisconsin have kept democracy alive, functioning philosophy by acting unflinchingly to meet some of the most troublesome problems confronting our people. Progressive legislation so far enacted does not completely what needs to be done, but we can say with all sincerity we have made a great beginning."

Heil Asserts 'High Taxes' Have Driven Plants From State
Janesville—(U)—Julius P. Heil, Republican candidate for governor, in a radio address last night maintained that Wisconsin's "high taxes" have driven industries out of the state.

"Many times," Heil said, "I have given names of industries driven out. No doubt all . . . know of men and women who are now under the WPA, or on relief, who have lost regular jobs because the industries they were working for were forced to move away."

In normal times, Heil said, Wisconsin is a great state, but "it cannot live off itself, and prosper. It is the money brought in from the outside, and distributed within the state, that makes Wisconsin or any other state prosperous."

He quoted Bruno Rahm of Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Utilities association, as saying Wisconsin's electric industrial rate is below the national average, in order to refute what he (Heil) said was the claim of Governor Philip LaFollette that it must be raised to electric rates of other states to drive them out of the state.

Foreign Writers To Give Talks at Teachers' Confab

News Correspondents to Talk on International Affairs

Outagamie county teachers attending the state teachers' convention at Milwaukee, Nov. 3, 4 and 5, will have the opportunity of hearing the latest news on international affairs by correspondents and lecturers now in Europe, according to an announcement of the Wisconsin Education association.

E. T. Hawkins, principal of the Seymour high school, and Miss Doris Nelson, route 2, Seymour, are the delegates of the county rural and state graded school teachers to the convention. Alternates are Stanley Helms, principal at Bear Creek, and Miss Grace Holiz, teacher at Hortonville.

The program, planned under the direction of President Autie Curry Sanford, superintendent of schools of Rusk County, will feature the appearance of such international figures as Paul Van Zeeland, former premier of Belgium; Sonia Tomara, foreign correspondent for the New York Herald-Tribune; Raymond Gray Swine, lecturer and news commentator; Howard Mumford Jones, member of the Harvard faculty; Channing Pollock, famed author and play-writer; and Marquis Childs, Washington correspondent for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Opens Nov. 3
The opening session on Nov. 3 will feature the appearance of Swine and Pollock, while the second general session will witness the appearance of Jones and Van Zeeland. The appearance of the latter speaker is of special interest because of his close and intimate association with events in Europe during the last few years. Van Zeeland is in a position to interpret events and international trends with the keen appraisal of one on the inside, and his address is regarded by the association headquaters as a possible highlight on a program of exceptional appeal.

Both Swine and Sonia Tomara are in close touch with world events, Swine being in Europe at the present time keeping in close touch with foreign affairs, while Miss Tomara spent the entire summer in eight European countries, much of her time in the Balkans and Czechoslovakia, ferreting out news concerning Nazi steps being taken to open the way to the Danube. Her sidelights upon world events as they may affect the near east will give an unusual slant to the international side of the program.

Keeping a balance between national and international affairs, Mrs. Sanford has arranged to have both Swine and Howard Mumford Jones interpret trends as they affect the American scene.

In addition to the regular convention program, teachers will have the opportunity of attending outstanding musical attractions being offered in Milwaukee at the time of the meeting. Both the Russian Cossacks and Nino Martini are appearing in concerts.

Walter Hausknecht to Conduct Swimming School at Y. M. C. A.

A meeting of persons interested in qualifying for Red Cross water safety instruction and life saving will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the Appleton Y. M. C. A., according to George Klein, life saving chairman of the Outagamie county chapter.

Walter A. Hausknecht, Red Cross field representative and instructor, arrived in Appleton Monday to conduct a school for swimmers this week at the Y. He will attend tonight's meeting to get acquainted with those who attend.

In announcing the classes, Klein called attention to the appalling death toll from drowning, 7,400 persons each year. Most of the deaths are avoidable and generally can be traced to lack of knowledge on the part of the victim, he said.

Hausknecht is an expert and fully qualified to teach life saving. He is a staff member of the first aid and life saving service of the national Red Cross. He was director of swimming at St. Benedict's college in Kansas for two years and is swimming instructor at the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. for a number of years.

A district evangelistic conference of the Baptist church will take place Thursday at Green Bay, opening at 5 o'clock and closing at 9 in the evening. The Rev. Mr. Abernathy, Washington, D. C., and the Rev. Mr. Willington, national figures in the Baptist church, will speak. The Rev. R. H. Spangler, pastor of First Baptist church, and a number of local people will attend.

The Rev. F. C. Reuter, pastor of First English Lutheran church, is in Marion today and Wednesday where he preached the sermon this morning at the opening of a central district conference of pastors of the American Lutheran church.

Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor of First Methodist church, spoke last night at a meeting of Appleton district ministers at Clintonville. Dr. Culver will attend a meeting of the board of education of the Wisconsin conference at Milwaukee on Thursday.

Young people of All Saints Episcopal church will attend a rally Thursday at Menasha. The choir will have a party this evening at the church.

Council to Meet
First Baptist church council will meet at 7:30 Friday night at the church. The board of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church will meet at 7:30 Wednesday night.

At First Congregational church last Sunday Dr. John B. Hanna, pastor, preached on "Congregation—Beyond the Local Parish," while at Memorial Presbyterian church the Rev. Robert K. Bell preached on "You Can Do It Too." The Rev. G. H. Blum, pastor of Emmanuel Evangelical church, spoke at his church on "The Value of a Friendly Smile."

The Lutheran churches celebrated the Reformation festival last Sunday. At Zion Lutheran church the Rev. Theodore Marti, pastor, spoke of "Dr. Martin Luther," while at First English Lutheran church the Rev. F. C. Reuter preached on "The Challenge of the Reformation." Holy communion was celebrated at the latter church in the evening. Reception of new members and holy communion took place at St. John Evangelical and Reformed church where the Reformation festival was celebrated. At St. Paul Lutheran church the Rev. E. M. Brandt preached the English sermon and the Rev. T. J. Sauer the German.

The Rev. D. E. Bosserman, pastor of Trinity English Lutheran church, spoke Sunday on "Knowing God Means Living Right," and at Mt. Olive Lutheran church the Reformation festival sermon by the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer was entitled "The Three Principles of the Reformation: Sola Scriptura, Sola Gratia, Sola Fides."

Recognition Service for all officers and teachers of First Methodist church was held Sunday, and reception of members and the presentation of the Joash offering took place.

Today and Wednesday are days of special observance for Catholics. Today is the feast of All Saints, a holiday of obligation, and tomorrow is All Souls day, not a holiday but one of devotion on which masses are offered for the souls of the departed.

"Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. "The following passage from the Bible was read: 'Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy: when I fall, I shall arise; when I sit in darkness, the Lord shall be a light unto me. . . . Sin is its own punishment. Every supple of pleasure in sin will furnish more than its equivalent of pain, until better in material life and sin is destroyed.'"

LAST SCRIP PAY DAY
Superior—(U)—City employees were paid in scrip yesterday on what officials termed the last scrip pay day. City Treasurer George Ostrom said an $80,000 loan was anticipated to meet next month's pay roll. About $101,000 in scrip is in circulation.

Remarks
Other remarks made by him were: "We're unlearning wishful economics. . . . We're spoiling children who have to learn by experience. . . . There is no legislative way of making business profitable."

When a strike hits the auto industry, Hanna said, it is particularly disastrous because for every man who works at making cars there are 14 others in affiliated fields, like garages, car financing, and others.

The word "liberal" is a "most misused term," Hanna said. "The true liberal wants to see laws changed to help a greater number of people, but he doesn't want one particular group favored."

Hanna, in concluding, reiterated his statement that the "country isn't going to hell," observing that mass reaction to this some day, and when it comes, it will be a good one."

The present trend in legislation, Hanna said, indicates that "we are trying to argue that the poor will not always be with us and in reforming the labor laws we're trying to repeal the axiom that 'we work by the sweat of our brow'."

"If you work less hours, you have less. . . . There is no legislative formula to tell how few hours we should work, but if there isn't enough production to go around, people won't get as many things as they need and as many things as they would get if they worked longer."

Government heads set out in 1933 to "prove the Bible was wrong," the speaker said. "Now we're trying to live without working at all."

Likening the making of laws to the game of golf, Hanna said that "players in that great drama today are changing the rules without first asking the membership."

He cited dismissal of the rules of evidence in labor hearings, remarking: "We're doing in business what we wouldn't do in sports." The labor board, Hanna said, preens itself on settling numerous strikes. "But how many have they started?" he asked. "It's like starting a fight between two people, then putting them, and setting yourself up as a great mediator."

Capital is moving to southern states, Hanna said, because "it knows that southern governors won't let a gang come in and seize property as has been done in the north."

Chapple's Campaign Methods Have Left Him Without Party

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—He is a persistent and resolute person, this young man from the northland who has done so much to prevent Wisconsin's 1938 election campaign from becoming the listless affair it seemed likely to be last summer.

John B. Chapple is the most apt example in state politics of the old adage that a politician must have a tough skin. Probably no other man in the history of Wisconsin's fervid politics has taken so much abuse, or given as much, as Chapple. And from present appearances he is going to keep right on giving and taking.

While he is just now a leading figure in the turbulent political events of the state, he is also a pathetic one. For no observer or realistic politician of any consequence this year gave him a chance to win either the Republican senatorial nomination or the senate seat for which he is now waging an independent campaign on a platform which consists of nothing but the Townsend platform, a platform which is heartily suspect in Republican circles.

While his political prospects, as even his friends agree, are now about as poor as those of the most obscure politicians in the state, he strangely enough is likely to influence enough votes, through his charges against and abusing of his one-time political associates and his independent candidacy, to turn the result of the election.

It is hard to imagine that Chapple will ever again be adopted by the leaders of the Republican party in Wisconsin as it is now constituted. And, although he is playing into the hands of the Progressive administration, it is equally inconceivable how he can be adopted by that organization in the light of his vindictive campaigning against the LaFollettes and all their political partners in his numerous previous campaigns.

Perhaps the best illustration of the ironic circumstances in which Chapple now finds himself is that much of the city's activity during the first week of this month is colored by the general fall election Nov. 8, which will be preceded by several last minute campaign speeches and political meetings this week. The month also brings the annual roll call of the Red Cross two special days, Armistice and Thanksgiving. Appleton High school's homecoming football game and a concert by Helen Jepson, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company.

On Nov. 15 the Outagamie county board will convene here and set its budget for the next year, and later in the month the city council also will face the annual problem of preparing its budget for the next year and setting a tax rate.

Schools will be closed Thursday and Friday to allow teachers to attend the Wisconsin Education association convention on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Red Cross Roll Call
The Outagamie chapter of the American Red Cross will begin its annual roll call Nov. 11, Armistice day, and will continue the drive through Nov. 24, Thanksgiving day. The Rev. G. H. Blum and George T. Werner are co-chairmen of the campaign this year. This week the Red Cross is sponsoring an aquatic school at the Y. M. C. A. pool.

No sabotage was involved, General Manager William N. Collins of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation asserted, "and no serious damage was caused."

Sen. LaFollette Hits At 'Last Minute Rumors'
Milwaukee—(U)—Senator Robert M. LaFollette assailed "fake last minute rumors" that industry threatens to leave Wisconsin because of Progressive policies, at a party rally here last night. Reports of industry being at a disadvantage, he said, were "utterly absurd" and "trumped up."

our "grandchildren will probably make the same mistakes."

He was introduced to the assembly by R. H. Purdy, president of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Madison—Few people have paid any attention to it, but one of the most interesting features of the election battles now coming to a close lies in the contest for the lieutenant governorship, a contest which has practically been submerged in the more important, and more bally-hoed, races for the senate and the governorship.

Wyngaard matched for years.

First consider the Progressive candidate for the second office of the state, George Nelson. Nelson is a Socialist, scorned the LaFollette party when it was formed in 1934, and is probably the one man in Wisconsin now living who ever ran for the vice-presidency. He ran with Norman Thomas in 1936 on the Socialist ballot. By a method not yet explained he soundly trounced three other Progressive would-be vice-governors in this fall's primary, candidates who were not the biggest men in the party, but were favored over this Socialist farmer who made but few speeches and did little campaigning.

Perhaps the best explanation is the fact that he has a good name for office-seeking, and that he is a farmer. Certainly it is telling no secret to say here that he has an excellent chance of being elected.

LAFOLLETTE AND SOCIALISM
Considering that Governor LaFollette has gone to some length to assure the state recently that he will have no truck with Socialists or their kind, the presence of Nelson on the ballot should have attracted more attention than it has, particularly since the lieutenant governor succeeds the governor in emergencies, and since the present executive has been looking yearningly at national political pastures and wasn't anxious to run again this year.

Now look at the Republican candidate, Walter Goodland of Racine. Here again it is telling no secret to say that he had a good chance to be elected. Next to Julius P. Heil, Goodland demonstrated in the primary that he was a strong asset to the Republican slate. Indeed, in view of the "troubles in which the Heil camp now finds itself in connection with the Chapple incident, it may be said that Goodland's chances are the best on the ticket. The Racine old-timer showed conclusively in the nominating election, in which he took both old party nominations handily, that he is known and esteemed among the conservatives. It must also be remembered that he claims a considerable acquaintance among the Old LaFollette following, despite the fact that he rates pretty low with the heirs. Add to his known friendship with the elder LaFollette the fact that he comes from a heavily populated section of the state, and if you're inclined to be optimistic about the Republicans' prospects, you may justifiably predict that he will be elected, or come close to it.

Thus there is the possibility of a Progressive governor and a Republican lieutenant governor, which, if it does come to pass, should guarantee that LaFollette would serve out his term, now apparently doubted in some quarters. At the same time there is a chance to see the election of a Republican governor. . . . More fun.

PARLIAMENTARY INEXPERT
There is a third candidate for lieutenant governor. He is the choice of the Democrats, although he can hardly be called their first choice.

He is Lame Duck Senator Max Galasinski of Milwaukee, recently trimmed in the primary election in his Polish ward in the Wisconsin metropolis.

If one regards Senator Max Galasinski realistically, it must bring a smile. For the lieutenant governor is the presiding officer of the state senate, really a senator without a vote. It's practically his cause Senator Duffy is working strictly alone.

There is one school of thought among politicians and students of state affairs which believes that many of the conservative Democratic votes, the Democrats who never approved of the New Deal or have grown cool lately, will go over to Heil when the prospects of the Bolens candidacy are generally recognized. That, however, appears to be uncertain since the Farley pep letters to the state Democratic candidates.

Another theory, and this one fondly held by the Progressive strategists, is that the liberal Democratic vote, that exemplified in the Fox total at the primary, for example, will swing to LaFollette. Senator Bolens himself recently explained that a Democrat will vote for LaFollette, but never for a Republican. Not a real Democrat.

What is more likely is that there will be a little of each, and that the Democratic ticket will end on November 9 in about the same position as the Lueck ticket two years ago, namely, third.

CAPITOL MISCELLANY

"The National Guard Review" organ of Wisconsin national guardsmen, described their chief, Adj. Gen. Ralph M. Immell, on the cover page of its current issue as "an organizer who has established a state-wide reputation," and adds that "he is now on the way to make it nation-wide." Immell, it need scarcely be mentioned, is director and chief organizer for the National Progressives of America. . . . One may wonder whether the Wisconsin State Employees association showed good taste or sense when it allowed a full page of space in its magazine to be used this month for the printing of messages from and pictures of the five state officers who are candidates for reelection on the Progressive ticket. . . . Milwaukee county, which represented 50 per cent of the increased Republican primary vote of this year over 1936, will be the seat of last-minute campaign drives of all political candidates for state office this week. As Milwaukee goes, so goes the state, seems to be the idea. . . . Progressives are becoming more and more pessimistic about the prospects of controlling the legislature next session, Republicans more optimistic.

Oxen are 200 Pounds Heavier After Trek of 18,000 Miles

Marietta, Ohio — Numberless inquiries are coming to Northwest Territory Celebration officials, now that the 18,000 mile trek of the pioneer caravan is completed, as to what became of the yoke of oxen which made the entire trip.

Were they sold, or butchered—how did they stand the trip? How did you shoe them, and so forth, are the queries propounded so frequently that the commission feels some public announcement necessary.

"Tom" and "Jerry" probably now the most traveled yoke of oxen in all history, are alive and well so remain until natural death overtakes them, according to Marvin Shock, their driver.

According to Shock's contract, the oxen were to become his property at the end of the trip and they will be kept on the Shock farm near Lowell, Ohio.

The spare yoke of animals kept on hand for emergency use were never needed, and the original yoke came home sleek and fat, their black hides glossy, and each weighing two hundred pounds more than at the start of their year's trek. Next to the dog "Buck" these oxen ingratiated themselves most into the hearts of the "pioneers," and into those of many people along the route. For instance, a Connecticut man offered to trade his prize-winning yoke and $100 "to oot" for them "critters."

To say that anyone is "dumb as an ox" is an open insult to any of the 36 men who traveled with the caravan. These oxen logged out all the timber for the boats at West Newton, Pa., and, being taken into the timber the way they were come out, no further direction was necessary. They came out, and if a small sapling was in their way, they themselves decided whether they could break it down or whether they should go around it.

Many an onlooker remarked "Could you feature horses leaping driven just by talking to them or pointing a whip?" "Tom" and "Jerry" came to know the time at which the daily parade was to start, and no matter how dilatory humans might be, they were ready to go. Shock says the hardest time he had was in holding them back while local communities got ready to go.

No runaways occurred, and no accidents to or through these splendid animals. Children everywhere were determined to pet them and even to handle their horns.

They were shod along the way as needed by Shock. A portable "stock" was carried, by which the ox could be lifted off the ground and his feet tied.

Before the trek started, the commission had asked through the nation-wide press for information about oxen or their shoemakers. Some 1200 replies were received, all shades of advice. Many said that oxen could not ever stand the trip—that steel shoes would not stand paved roads, and so forth.

Less than one-half the number of shoes estimated as necessary were used, and neither ox had a sore foot in the entire trek.

Long live "Tom" and "Jerry." The world now knows more of these humble servants of man than it has since the days of our grandfathers.

White House Has Opened Way for Radio Rebuttals

Spokesman on Air After Dies Sets Precedent.
Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Although Representative Dies of the house committee investigating un-American activities was perceptibly annoyed by the strategy of the White House in arranging for a spokesman to go on the radio immediately after the scheduled talk by Mr. Dies, the precedent is of profound importance to the future of debate on the radio in America.

For three years now, this correspondent has contended that the radio listeners of the United States are unfairly treated in that they are given a broadcast by the president of the United States on a simultaneous hookup of facilities and yet the broadcasting companies never permit anybody to go on the air immediately afterwards to answer Mr. Roosevelt.

Again and again, the president, who is a craftsman without parallel in arranging statements and quotations which leave an impression favorable to his side, has benefited by the fact that the same audience which hears him is dispersed and the reply is never presented to those same listeners.

The way now has been opened by the White House itself to a much better balanced arrangement for radio talks. The action of the president and his aides on the Democratic National committee in putting on the air a talk for the half-hour period immediately after Mr. Dies' scheduled address creates a precedent not only for the Mutual Broadcasting company, which arranged to carry both talks, but for all the other broadcasting chains as well.

Emphasizing the spirit of fair play in America, it would have been supposed that long ago the idea of give-and-take in a debate on both sides would have been fulfilled on the radio. In South Carolina, for example, it is a legal requirement that opposing candidates must campaign from the same platform, and in Ohio, this year, Senator Bulkley, New Deal Democrat, and Robert A. Taft, Republican nominee, are making a tour of the state in which they carry on a joint debate.

From the radio point of view nothing could be more dramatic than to allow the Republican leader of the senate or the house, or someone designated by either one, to follow immediately on the air the fireside chats of the president or the speeches by his spokesmen in the government. So it could not have been any objection from the standpoint of so-called "program technique," which up to now has prevented this vivid sort of feature from being allowed by all broadcasting systems.

The commonly heard charge has been that the broadcasting systems, being composed of radio stations which must apply every six months for renewal of licenses to a Federal Communications commission, whose members are subject to removal at any time by the president, are fearful of the economic consequences of trading on the administration's toes. One dislikes to believe that any American radio companies whose frequent boast is that the American system of broadcasting is better than the British government-controlled system or any other in the world, would permit any such fears or apprehensions to govern them.

Feeling Their Way

The truth probably is that the broadcasting systems have been feeling their way just as any infant industry would do, especially when subject to governmental regulation as is the communications business. Doubtless, when the demand for debate on the air, or rather a direct answer to the president or any other cabinet officer or government official, actually arises from the rank and file in both political parties, it will be complied with as a matter of course.

That's why the precedent actually initiated by the administration itself may be of extraordinary aid to the broadcasting systems, because, in this way, one of the most embarrassing problems they have had to deal with in the past has been solved by the action of the White house itself. Some day, therefore, when the broadcasting companies have the temerity to schedule for immediate broadcasting after the president speaks an outstanding speaker from the other side, the public will have every doubt swept aside as to the extent desire of the radio chains to give the pro and the con in fair debate.

Wanted Advance Copy

One thing which Mr. Dies complained of is certainly unfair, and that is the request he says the administration made of the radio station for an advance copy of his talk of Monday night so that the spokesman for the administration viewpoint could frame his rebuttal address. In the debate the speakers could then have their thoughts to be registered ahead of time, and Mr. Dies was right in withholding copy till he started speaking. This is a disadvantage, of course, from the standpoint of the newspapers, which

Outagamie County Relief Load Rises During Last Month

Total Number of Cases in State Shows No Change In September

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Contrasting with the general state relief picture, which showed virtually no change, most of the counties in the northeastern Wisconsin region reported slight increases in their general relief loads in September, it was shown today in figures supplied by the state public welfare department.

Although September usually marks a seasonal upturn in relief loads, this year there was no change in the state volume of cases over the previous month, the department said, although there was a reversal of the steady downward trend which had been noted since early spring of this year.

The movement in volume of cases varied widely among counties and apparently followed no sectional or industrial pattern; 42 counties showed increases, 27 showed declines, while 2 remained stationary. Significant, the department said, was a 32 contraction in the relief load of populous Milwaukee county, which helped to bring the whole state average downward.

Outagamie County Up

Here are the figures on the northeastern Wisconsin section for September, as supplied by the state relief office, showing the number of cases, and the percentage of change in September over the previous month:

| County    | Load | Pct. Change |
|-----------|------|-------------|
| Brown     | 696  | 0.0%        |
| Outagamie | 469  | +3.3        |
| Calumet   | 56   | +7.7        |
| Manitowoc | 511  | -3.7        |
| Waupaca   | 355  | +13.1       |
| Shawano   | 264  | -8.2        |
| Winnebago | 738  | -3.3        |

The average grant per relief case in the state changed from $18.78 in August to $19.54 in September. Outagamie county relief charges rose more than 5 per cent.

4 of Every 10 Eligible Voters Won't Bother to Cast Ballots

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Four out of every 10 eligible voters in Wisconsin won't bother to go to the polls at the state's general election next Tuesday, according to the Wisconsin Taxpayers' alliance, which also revealed today the startling information that only 28 per cent of the electorate of the state, or less than 3 out of 10, took the trouble to cast their ballots in the recent primary elections.

The Taxpayers' alliance is an independent agency, privately supported, devoted to the study of governmental affairs and public problems. Its predictions in the election this fall are based on a study of election activity in the state in past years, it said.

"Voting figures for 1936, a presidential election year, show that only 1,200,000, or 68 per cent, of the qualified voters cast a ballot for governor in that year," the alliance pointed out.

Stimulated in 1936

"Voting in 1936, however, was stimulated by publicity and interest surrounding the presidential usually want advance copy so as to catch early editions, but it is a disadvantage which is more than offset from the speaker's standpoint by the knowledge that the impression he makes on the attacking side cannot be unfairly impaired by his opponent.

In congress the debate goes on extemporaneously among members after listening to prepared addresses. Unquestionably, men of heady report and skillful debate, qualities which will be found who can do the same thing on the air. As for the audience, it gladly would stay up a half-hour later to hear someone of ability answer Mr. Roosevelt, whether he is speaking in his capacity as president or "head of the Democratic party" or any other capacity. For that's the essence of democracy and fair play.

Compare Figures

How the state as a whole votes as compared with the electors in the counties of the Appleton area is shown in the following table, furnished by the alliance, which gives the number of eligible voters in 1936, the percentage of those eligible who voted in 1936, and the percentage of those eligible who cast their ballots in the gubernatorial primary a few weeks ago:

What's New at the Library

The working girl with a small apartment has a problem on her hands if she wants home cooked food without spending all of her spare moments drooping over her three burner gas stove. "The Working Girl Must Eat" by Hazel Young is a boon to the girl who breakfasts mainly on coffee and lunches in town, then dashes home at 5 o'clock to cook a meal for one, two or three persons, and who has too much common sense to depend entirely on a frying pan and a can opener but not enough extra energy to plan and cook an elaborate meal. This little book contains complete instructions for preparing 100 simple but varied and appetizing dinners, a few Sunday breakfasts, late suppers and bridge refreshments. It even has some suggestions for things to do the night before to make tomorrow's meal easier to prepare.

The matter of food gets plenty of attention this week at the library, for the new shipment of books contains two more cook books. One is the "Boston Cooking School" cook book by Fannie Merritt Farmer, which has 3119 recipes, all tested for their value to the housewife and hostess. The other is "Most for Your Money" cook book by Cora, Rose and Bob Brown. The Browns have discovered the secret of excellent food, having literally eaten their way around the world. They hold that the secret lies not in elaborate or expensive dishes, but in making the most of the market, buying foods that are in season and at their best.

An experienced and well-known social worker reveals the conflict that caused a switch from FERA to WPA, shows the concrete efforts of the clash, tells how public health programs were abandoned, how a vast number of unemployed women were retained at high wage rates and how farmers were taken and kept away from their true occupation, in a book entitled "America on Relief" by Lane and Stegmuller. Although Harry L. Hopkins encouraged the preparation of the book, he does not agree with some of the opinions and is not responsible for any of the facts.

With the world series just in the background, "Major League Baseball" is still timely with its answers to all questions about the game. The author, Ethan Allen, was a veteran outfielder with more than 10 years of active playing in both major leagues.

Fashion may be "spinach" but nevertheless every woman wants to know enough about it to look like this year's model instead of a left-over from the crash of '29. "Designing Women" by Margaretta Byers is not a book about current fashions but shows how to pick and choose from any year's fashions so that every woman can make her figure and face more nearly resemble her ideal and get value received for the money she spends on clothes. One section of the book deals with the etiquette of clothes, telling what to wear, when and with what, and the correct wardrobe for one's occupation or station in life.

The popularity of Charlie McCarthy has revived interest in ventriloquism and several books on the subject have come out recently. A new one at the library is "Ventriloquism as a Hobby" by Sydney Vereker which discusses in detail speaking without moving the lips, manipulation of the figure, throwing the voice and gives many facts about the art.

If you want to know what your baby is like and how he develops, what he is trying to do and how you can best help him along, then you will want to read "Babies are Human Beings" by Aldrich. It is an interpretation of the natural development of young children which can only flourish with parental support.

"The Life of Christ" by Hall Caine is a personal study which took two decades to write, required five trips to the Holy Land for information about the countryside, and involved research of more than 1,000 volumes.

"Children's Play Indoors and Out" by Elizabeth F. Boettger tells what the child likes best to play with and why he should be permitted to play unmolested in order to develop ideas, initiative and self-confidence.

"Experimental Psychology" by Robert S. Woodworth is neither a laboratory manual nor a presentation of any theoretical point of view, but a broad treatment of specific scientific problems in learning, perception, thinking, emotion, the methods used for attacking such problems and the results so far achieved.

Blind Man to Give Lecture at Senior High School Nov. 9

Although he is totally blind, Robert A. Monaghan will tell Appleton High school students Wednesday, Nov. 9, "How the Blind See." He will appear in the assembly on a lecture program.

Despite his blindness Mr. Monaghan leads a successful life doing the things that most sighted people do. He received his Bachelor of music degree from the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y. Special training to overcome his handicap was taken at the New York State School for the Blind. He will demonstrate for his audience how students read and write Braille, study geometry with plastic clay, and learn geography with relief maps.

Proving that the human body can adapt itself to varying conditions, Mr. Monaghan will describe his own participation in the shot put, the dashes, the broad jump and the high jump. As hobbies the speaker enjoys woodworking and tinkering with his radio in his own workshop.

Part of his lecture will include a discussion of the various ways the blind have of getting about: the kinaesthetic sense, the "obstacle" sense, and the use of the "seeing eye" dog. The benefits of the "talking book" machine will also be explained.

MONEY IN CHESS

Calgary, Alta. — When Fred Leser received an old hand-carved chess set from the estate of his mother in Germany five years ago he valued it merely for sentimental reasons.

The other day he read of a movie actor's valuable antique chess set and submitted his own to experts. They said it was a fine example of Chinese ivory carving and worth $7,000.

Loans to farmers from production credit associations were reported at a five-year high of $183,000,000 at the mid-point of the 1938 financing season.

"YOU'RE A ROOSEVELT HATER"

He floats through the air without any sails. This darn man Duffy on the President's election.

On a visit to this section about three weeks ago Senator Duffy was a rip-roaring, fire-snorting dragon pulling a purge of his own. He was going to purge every cussed conservative out of the Democratic party. When he got through with the blankety-blanks the party was to be as pure as the air above the highest Himalayas.

But within a few days the Democratic State Central Committee unanimously—mind you, unanimously—selected Harry Bolens to head the state ticket naming the toughest, roughest, tobacco-chewing, tooth-grinding, hard-fisted conservative to be found within Democratic ranks.

So after Senator Duffy had accomplished that astounding victory he came back to the Fox River Valley to talk about the Post-Crescent editor. This holder of top honors in the Knights of the Rubber Stamp has dubbed us "Roosevelt Hater," a mouthy epithet on a plane with "Trotskyist" at Moscow and "Liar" at Berlin. Herr Adolf having neither imagination nor originality.

We have been such a deep dyed "Roosevelt Hater" that we have already seen congress wipe out one of the principal bills the Post-Crescent opposed and today congress wishes it had reversed others. The President ably seconded by Mr. Duffy, put a deep scar into the building industry through the corporate surplus tax, preventing the hundreds of thousands of industries in this country from using their income to rebuild their properties or even buy new machinery without extortionate penalties.

The Post-Crescent glories in the fact that it exposed and denounced this kindergarten law. Today, as a result of its repeal, construction is one of the few things that is keeping people at work pretty regularly.

The Post-Crescent was a "Roosevelt Hater" because, seeing the Wisconsin farmer receiving about a half billion dollars a year from the dairy industry, it begged and implored the administration not to subsidize competition throughout the union, and it iterated and reiterated to its readers that Mr. Duffy voted for the AAA measure only a year ago that made the beggary of this great industry a possibility in the near future. We do not ask readers to take our word for it. We now quote from the Texas Weekly, a publication devoted to building up the state after which it is named, in a recent issue:

"Ten years ago Texas stood 30th among the 48 states in production of cheese. Today it stands 6th."

Last year the state produced 15,960,000 pounds of whole milk American cheese cheddar and nearly 17 million pounds of all kinds of cheese. During each of the last 10 years Texas has produced more cheese than it produced the preceding year. And all available figures show that this trend is continuing through the calendar year—that Texas' 1938 production of cheese will be substantially above its 1937 production.

"Our cheese plant, like not as widely distributed as our creamery butter and ice cream plant, but it is an interesting fact that no crop raising district of the state is without one or more cheese plants. In fact the Palo Verde district is the only one having but one cheese plant and at the other extreme is the district known as the North Texas Plains which has 22."

"Despite the fact that production of cheese in Texas has increased enormously during the last decade, large quantities of this wholesome and delicious food continue to be brought in from other states."

"This is a time when the dairy industry needs to be expanded in Texas. The cotton acreage restriction program of the federal government must result in greater emphasis on the various types of livestock interest as a medium for marketing the increased feed-stuffs which will inevitably result from this policy. The cotton industry is a good thing, but it is not the only thing. The dairy industry is subject to continued, and intensified expansion, but from certain standpoints the prospects of such expansion of cheese production are particularly bright. For one thing, cheese is less perishable than some other dairy products. For another thing the cheese industry in Texas is relatively seeking new buyers."

"As it plans for industrial progress, Texas will be wise to give its most immediate attention to industries for which it is peculiarly suited. The manufacture of cheese—and all other dairy products—is one of these. The growth of this industry must be kept on a sound basis. Progress of the industry seems certain to continue."

If one is a "Roosevelt Hater" to point out to the hundreds of thousands in Wisconsin whose hard work is jeopardized by the policies of this administration then we will have to submit to the epithet.

If one is a "Roosevelt Hater" to point out and to emphasize over and over again that Mr. Duffy voted for the measures that made this situation possible then indeed the epithet has become a badge of honor.

But we notice that at a straw ballot taken at the meeting of the Agricultural Council the other day at Milwaukee, Senator Duffy received only about 16 per cent of the votes, the other 84 being divided between Ekern and Wiley. There must be quite a number of these "Roosevelt Haters" in the state. And they aren't all newspapers either. In this respect there are just as many as there are wise farmers.

The list could be extended to a tiresome length but the public is familiar with its details. The story is an old one. It is the story of an impractical man trying to run a practical country and failing largely because he was given too much authority by a congress that said "yes" when it should have known better.

If to speak that self-evident truth be treason, make the most of it.

Every man in congress who is generally recognized as having ability has seriously and emphatically opposed numerous Roosevelt policies. Mr. Duffy has opposed none, not even the one planned at crucifying Wisconsin.

And so our junior senator continues to float through the air. Even on his bill board posters he hangs to the Roosevelt coat-tails like a youngster who is afraid to let an elder out of his sight.

He announces on those posters the marvelous similarity between, statesmen for one is FDR and the other FRD. If you have the right initials your sagacity is established which if nothing else is rather cute.

But why not get out the old Ouija board?

FIGHTING COAL BLACK AND THE SEVEN IMPS

It is going to be hard for his followers to believe it but Mr. Chapple has streamlined his program. In other days his platform was short and snappy, merely "I stand for what's right" but now it is double-jointed.

Mr. Chapple is against war. Not only that, he will spend his last "drop of blood" holding Mars off from attack upon our people. To be sure he is also for the Townsend plan. But he lacks originality in this regard also he would push $48-every-Friday morning or 60-bucks-Sunday-afternoon.

Here is the modern politician, the enemy of extensive platforms with many planks, the fighter against redundancy. He wants things, simple, simple and sweet.

Mr. Roosevelt is also against war. As the election swings into sight the President is shaking his head and shaking his finger and shaking out words at the devil. He will keep us out of war, even if he has to take a third term to do it. And if he slips Mr. Chapple will be right there to hold off the dread disaster.

And now who is pushing us into war? Of course it is the reactionaries. They are skulking out through the forests, padding up the rivers, flying through the clouds, trumpeting up the forces of hell so that our navy may be ordered out and the cantonments opened up again.

Yes, it is the reactionaries, the Tories, the economic royalists, and all the other bad boys of politics. But with two such doughty champions as the President and Mr. Chapple pouring out assurances of safety no one should lose too much sleep.

The only thing to remember is to elect the right people and then we can keep away from the battlefields. And remember it was always the reactionaries who got us into war—those darn conservatives.

Or was Woodrow Wilson the great liberal idealist of his day? Or didn't he get us into the last war?

Who would be so anti-social as to bring up such grossly questions as those?

PAT CROWE PROVED HIS POINT

Pat Crowe, criminal of varied activities who died last week, had his own theory about environment being the great factor in producing crime.

He merely called attention to the fact that a little village in Iowa where he was brought up was also the home of such men as Buffalo Bill Farmer Burns who taught Frank Gotch how to wrestle, Lillian Russell the great actress, Billy Sunday and Mel Trotter, the latter two devoted evangelists, and then Crowe would say, "You can't tell me there is much to this environment business."

Son of respectable and prosperous parents who couldn't keep him at college. Crime, went through every stage of the criminal career, from picking pockets to blowing bones and kidnapping children and even after long imprisonment, he somehow was shocked by a little superior intelligence into a realization of the futility of the life he led he became a slum worker and lecturer and said that the cause for all his criminal misadventure was that "I wanted easy money."

Never was there a surer demonstration that "Crime Does Not Pay," the title of Crowe's lecture, for he could show that he had participated in more than a million dollars in loot and when he withdrew from crime his surplus wouldn't support a canary for a day.

—DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

NEW YORK—Mr. Chic Farmer without doubt will kill me for this. Services private, but don't omit flowers on my account.

I say Mr. Farmer will kill me, but I speak, of course, rhetorically. It is much the same as saying that one splits one's sides laughing. One actually does not split one's sides. If he did, it would be no laughing matter. So, when we say "You are killing me," or "I split my sides laughing," there is no iota of verity in the statements. I hope we understand each other, and I particularly hope Mr. Farmer understands. I am not one to put ideas in a fellow's head.

The reason Mr. Farmer will kill me is because he probably doesn't want me to tell you about the Lady who Wrote the Book. He is afraid the Lady will read what I write and will be angry, and will come puffing indignantly into town and shoot him with a bullet. Worse even than that, she might get mad enough to write another Book.

Furthermore the Lady already has threatened to kill herself, so you see there are three of us—Mr. Farmer, the Lady and I—who are practically dead right now.

Get along, little Dally, with your story. Very well, here it is. I was never much of a hand for keeping secrets.

Mr. Chick Farmer, as a member of the staff of the Stork Club, takes photographs of celebrities and provides items of interest about people who are prominent or Think They Are.

A few weeks ago as he was at the club quietly minding his own business, a Lady entered. She told Chick she had come to see a certain New York columnist who shall be nameless for reasons you'd never guess. She had heard that when he was not at his stint he was at the club. Mr. Farmer, always a gent, explained that the columnist never met strangers except by appointment, but that he (Mr. Farmer) would be happy to relay her message. Thereupon the Lady unwrapped a parcel she had been clamping tightly, and held it forth.

"It is a book manuscript," she said, much in the manner that Father Divine says, "Peace—it's wonderful!"

"Yesum," replied Chick, fearing the worst. "I want the columnist to read it," she continued. "I want him to get it published right away. It is about farmers in Tennessee. I have dedicated it to the U. S. Army. I think soldiers deserve our best, don't you? I dedicated the book to them because of my great patriotism. A nice gesture, don't you think?"

The only polite thing Mr. Farmer could say was yes. Mr. Farmer, when circumstances warrant, fibs delightfully.

The Lady departed, and Mr. Farmer dropped the manuscript into a drawer. He figured he would wait a few days and then mail it back to the Lady—who lives in Massachusetts—with a note saying the columnist had read it and couldn't do anything about it.

Before he could act, however, he received a letter from her. She wrote that she was awaiting the columnist's verdict. Farmer's face turned white, however, when he read her final paragraph:

"My soul is wrapped in my Book," it said. "If he is unable to get it published, there will be but one thing left for me to do—kill myself!"

After that, Chick didn't dare return the manuscript. "I do not want the Lady's blood on my conscience," he said in that simple, honest way of his.

Every week, regular as the collection plate at a revival meeting, Chick gets a letter from her. She is getting impatient. She is getting more and more determined to kill herself. Chick is getting afraid and afraid to return the book. Every time he hears a motorcar engine backfire it is, to his tortured soul, the Lady author blowing out her brains. The strain is terrific.

The columnist declines to read the book. He has already read a book. It was by Sinclair Lewis and he didn't like it, so he is sure he won't like the Lady's.

He is a calloused fellow. He has advised Mr. Farmer to return the manuscript to the Lady and let nature take its course.

35 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Nov. 4, 1913

A total of $54,260 had been raised at noon that day in the campaign for $100,000 to erect a Young Men's Christian association building in Appleton. The average percentage on the third day of a seven-day campaign in other cities was much less than the amount subscribed in Appleton.

A Lawrence college alumni reunion was to be held at Milwaukee Thursday night in connection with the teachers convention. Among Lawrence professors who were to attend were Dr. Samuel Plantz and Professors J. S. Garas, L. B. Rogers, R. M. Bagg and E. D. Wright.

Oswald Schneider, Grand Chute, was awarded first prize for the best cheese at the dairy show held at the Union Stock yards in Chicago. The cheese scored 95½ points.

10 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Oct. 30, 1928

Mr. S. C. Shannon, recently appointed manager of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association Christmas sale in Appleton, left Tuesday for Milwaukee to attend the annual convention of the association. Miss Marie Klon, county nurse, and Ellen Raether, state nurse with headquarters in Appleton, also were attending the meeting.

Dr. and Mrs. M. N. Pytz of Neenah had returned from a trip to Texas and Mexico. Plans for a historical exhibit here in the next few months were adopted at a meeting of the Lions club at the Conway hotel Monday afternoon.

"Wanted—A Maid" was the name of the play to be staged by the Appleton Fiks club for its annual charity show, according to the announcement of club officers, Edward F. Munum was general chairman and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Bannister were to direct the production.

Almost two hundred teachers and their wives, through rolling leaves in snow, bending the knees, and wailing for the dear pine trees high up yonder.

He is a valiant dweller in rough lands. The gamest bird of all. With pounding heart the hunter stands. And shoots. . . . No sudden fall.

Of ruffled feathers his reward, but more Than likely, swifter than the whispering wind. The partridge rises with a will to soar. And leaves slow man behind.

So rise my hopes in this blue autumn hour. From the dull weight of all material things. With the brave partridge's immortal power. And the wild humming of his fearless wings. (Copyright, 1938)

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

THE PARTRIDGE

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—John Barrett, minister to a half dozen South American republics at various times and first director-general of the Pan American Union, died a few days ago but he long will be remembered for some of the fast thinking the state department recalls.

The Pan American union building had just been completed and Barrett was walking toward the doorway of the structure with Andrew Carnegie, who had come to inspect the costly building for which he had supplied the money. "Anything else you need?" asked Carnegie.

Barrett hadn't given the idea a thought—and he knew that he had to speak out before Carnegie left. He saw an ugly patch of mud at one end of the building. It clicked.

"If we had a sunken garden to replace that mud it would be mighty handsome," he suggested. "How much would it cost?" asked Carnegie. Barrett hadn't the foggiest idea, but he shot back: "Thirty thousand dollars."

Carnegie wrote out a check for the amount on the spot and the resulting garden is probably the handsomest one in Washington.

Ghosts of the Court

Not all ghost writers are in literature or politics. Some of the most forlorn "ghosts" are lawyers. They draft extensive law briefs on important cases, year after year, for presentation to the supreme court without having their names appear on them as counsel. Big shot members of the firm get that honor.

But there are exceptions. Even youngsters occasionally get such breaks. Francis Kirkham, former secretary to Chief Justice Hughes, recently appeared at the supreme court with the first brief to which his name had been attached as member of a large San Francisco law firm. As a "ghost" he had drafted dozens before, all to be signed by senior members of the firm.

"What this country needs," cracked a New Dealer after reading a headline on a speech by the conservative junior senator from Nebraska, "is more Burke control."

But New Deal critics are getting even by refurbishing an old Doct-stader.

They tell of a New England druggist who advertises: "XYZ rat poison—50 cents—kills 'em quick."

"ABC rat poison—25 cents—kills 'em slower."

"WPA rat poison—10 cents—doesn't kill 'em, but makes 'em so lazy you can catch them."

Army Waits For Braid

And at this point we must report that the army is held up by a shortage of gold-braid embroidery. Recently an order was published requiring all officers to wear blue uniforms for evening functions. There are 12,000 officers in the army, and when you begin sewing gold braid on 12,000 blue uniforms, or even on half that many, you have started something.

Uniform makers were swamped. They could cut and sew the costly blue cloth but the gold embroidery was a job for specialists—and there weren't half enough. It was a "bottle neck" such as hampers the army in times of emergency. If it isn't gold braid, it's a shortage of freight cars.

The order for blue dress uniforms had to be suspended until the embroiderers could lay on the gold braid.

'GEORGE' GUIDES PLANES
London—(U)—The robot pilot "George" is said to be largely responsible for the smooth straight flying of the "Pickaback" plane "Mercury" on its recent flight to South Africa.

"George" is a compact mass of light fuselage, steel, swiftness, spindly gyros, and finely balanced levers.

"He" is able to sense the slightest deviation from the course "his" human colleague has set, and corrects it instantly.

LESTER J. DICKINSON
Counting on low crop prices.

GUY M. GILLETTE
He beat the "purge."

This is the sixth in a series of articles describing campaigns of national significance.

Des Moines—(U)—Two snow-haired militants—one a New Dealer despite an unofficial purge against him, the other a veteran opponent of Roosevelt policies—battle for a United States senatorship from Iowa.

Senator Guy M. Gillette, 59, is stumping the state in an attempt to keep it in the Democratic column where the Roosevelt sweep carried it in 1932.

Former Senator Dickinson, 63, is trying to pull Iowa back into the Republican fold where it rested in comparative security for three-quarters of a century before Roosevelt.

In the background is the effect the outcome of the contest might have on Democratic presidential possibilities for Iowa's Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture.

Wouldn't Be "Purged"
Gillette, although long known as a liberal, voted against the original AAA, the NRA and the Roosevelt court reorganization bill. In the June primary he found his opponent, Rep. Otto D. Wearin, endorsed by WPA's Harry L. Hopkins and smiled upon by James Roosevelt. But Gillette beat Wearin about 2 to 1.

A week after the primary Gillette and the President lunched together in their shirtsleeves at the White House. Democratic Chairman James A. Farley and other party leaders have assured Gillette of their support.

Keynote G.O.P. In 1932
Keynote in the 1932 Republican national convention and mentioned for the Republican presidential nomination in 1936, Dickinson was among the first in congress to assail the New Deal. He declares Gillette was a barnyard with the purpose of the President's court bill and had introduced three bills which would have accomplished the "domination of the judiciary by the executive."

When Dickinson was defeated for reelection in 1936 President Roosevelt's name was at the top of the Democratic ticket. Iowa Republicans predict the result will be different this year. They expect on the low crop prices to swing farm votes.

Chairman Farley said recently the Democrats' faced a tough fight.

Personal Health Talks

BOUND UP WITH A LIE
Back in the days of the almanac the dictum that a daily bowel movement was essential for every one and "inactive" bowel function accounted for whatever ailed the dum customer, was broadcast as widely as the quacks and nostrum mongers could circulate their free bait.

Upon that datum, which was left unquestioned for a century or more to permeate the popular mind, rests the morbid notion, still prevalent, that the first principle in the maintenance of health, prevention of disease and cure of illness is to procure by whatever means a "thorough" movement of the bowel.

This vicious teaching, I say, was accepted as the truth by the great unlearned laity simply because for a century or more the medical profession hypocritically did not see fit to oppose it. Dignified silence, the old timers called their attitude. Even today the doctors still get away with murder in that way—and how they snarl and gnash their teeth when some of their more flagrant sins of commission or omission are exposed to public view.

Unlearned laity, I say, referring, of course, not to the average layman's knowledge of history, geography or Romance languages, but to his knowledge of the human body and how it works. In this department of learning the college or university graduate is scarcely distinguishable from the regular moron. The human body and its function is a subject which great American educators have always regarded as rusty.

In the earlier days the quacks and nostrum mongers unequivocally declared in the almanac that it was risky to let your bowels go without a cleaning out at stated intervals. Today the charlatans, canvassing the public via radio, drive that same suggestion home, but rather by indirect means and constant repetition. That's their business to keep prospective customers scared or anxious about the vague "toxic" consequences of any "sluggishness" in the secretion of bile or in peristalsis.

It is nobody's business to tell the truth, to teach the poor ignorant college graduate elementary physiology. One gets only blows in the dark and attacks from ambush for trying to enlighten the laity about such things.

Not only the intestinal functions but all of the processes of digestion, from the instant food is swallowed to the instant the residue is expelled from the alimentary canal, are governed by the unconscious, autonomic, involuntary, "sympathetic" nervous mechanism, and not at all by will or brain. It is as childish to imagine you can "regulate" the bowel by means of this or that medicine as it would be to make a practice of taking a mild diaphoretic every day or a more vigorous one once a week to keep your imaginary "pores" clear so your system could "throw off" hypothetical "toxic wastes" such as the nostrum vendors conjure up to frighten you.

Your Birthday

"SCORPIO"
If November 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 12:15 p. m.; from 2:15 to 4:15 p. m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 a. m.; from 6:15 to 8:15 p. m., and from 10:15 p. m. until midnight.

On this day it is advisable for you to entertain only good thoughts and keep your mind free from anger, jealousy or greed. Forgiveness is a virtue you may have need to display, if you are to avoid misgivings. Too many people will select the line of least resistance, in trying to adjust their personal affairs, and the results are likely to be disappointing. Fear is the one thing that can turn a brave man or woman into a coward, so let it have no dominion over you. With courage you can face and overcome nearly every obstacle and condition. Physical fatigue will be responsible for many persons feeling depressed this day; rest is the only remedy for it. Married and engaged couples, and those whose lives are being swayed by Cupid, will find joy through unselfishness and a sincere effort to make other people happy.

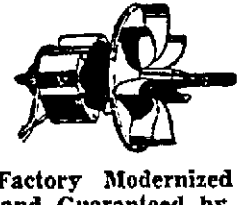

If a woman and November 2 is your birthday, you may be saved from making many mistakes if you follow your intuition. You are apt to allow friends and relatives to impose on your good nature. Be just to yourself before you give too freely to others. You must nourish the sentimental regard you have for those near and dear to you, and guard against allowing anything to make you lack it. Do not let the prosaic times we live in affect your tender emotions or love for the romantic. Stick to your ideals, even if you might be told that they are old-fashioned. Through dramatic, education, missionary, social welfare, journalistic or scientific research work your big chance to make a name and money is likely to come. Your matrimonial career is apt to be replete with happiness. The child born on November 2 is usually always ready to share whatever it has with others. Generous to a fault, this youngster will have many worthwhile friends. A bright future seems to be awaiting the mature efforts of this child.

If a man and November 2 is your natal day, good business sense, foresight, combined with luck, most likely will enable you to go through life with very few worries. Through mining operations, promoting, real estate development, hotel or restaurant management, authorship, painting, manufacturing or selling you ought to come a most successful man. Successful People Born On No. 2:

Parents Shouldn't Try to be Matchmakers for Children

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—My complaint is this: I can't make my daughter marry the man I have picked out for her. I have a young girl who is inclined to run around and stay out late, and I think she would be better off married. Now, Miss Dix, I have picked out a promising young business man as a suitable match for this wayward young daughter of mine. He is in the plumbing business, which is a legitimate and honest profession, and I can't see her objections to him, as he is old enough to be level-headed and keep her in line. But she will not consent and I want your advice on how to make her see that marrying this man is the best thing to do.
MR. H. R. L.

Answer:
I am afraid I cannot help you in this matter, Mr. H. R. L., because I don't believe in parents as matchmakers. If your daughter was thinking of marrying a man whom you knew to be immoral or drunken or lazy and good for nothing, you would be justified in moving heaven and earth to break off the match. But this man is a good, steady, successful man, and it is her portion if she had for a husband a sot or a rouse or a man who wouldn't support her.

But making a catch is an entirely different proposition, for, while you can tell with mathematical exactness the kind of husband that will make a woman miserable, nobody knows the sort of husband that will make her happy.

You see, Mr. H. R. L., the fact that a man is moral and upright, sober, industrious and a good provider doesn't necessarily make him a desirable husband in a woman's eyes. It doesn't make her love him or enjoy being with him. It doesn't fill her days with contentment and make her feel that just being his wife is the finest thing in the world. There has to be something in the man that appeals personally to a woman.

Perhaps she doesn't even know what it is herself, but it is there, and it is something that is stronger than life or death, poverty or riches that makes her willing to work for him, sacrifice for him and stick by him through thick and thin just because he is her man.

That is why no father, no matter how wise and clever he is or how good a judge of men he is, can pick out a husband for his daughter. It is purely a matter of individual taste, and fathers' and daughters' tastes seldom run along the same line. The very qualities that would lead you to choose a particular candidate are the ones that would have no weight with her.

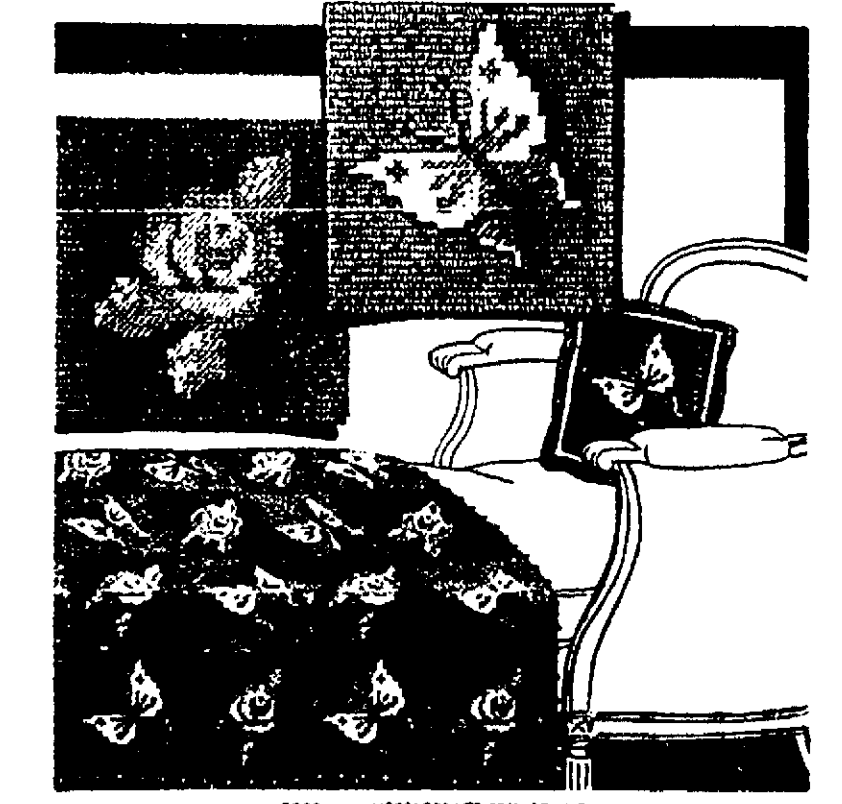

You have practicality on your side. She has romance on hers. You want her to marry a settled, sober man who will marry her. She wants a playmate; somebody of her own age, who will dance with her and run around with her and who will perhaps fight with her, but who will not dream of trying to control her. To ask her to change her demands in a man for yours is an unreasonable ask to offer mush and milk to one who craves caviar.

Undoubtedly, your man is the safer chance. But if the girl doesn't want him and doesn't like him, if he does not come up to her ideal nor fire her fancy, and if she has no taste for him, how could you expect her to be happy with him. And, after all, isn't it better for the girl to marry the man she wants and the man who pleases her than the one who pleases you? It seems to me that the one who has to live with a husband or a wife has the right to pick him or her out.

Dear Miss Dix—I am past 30, considered good-looking, have never been in love and have never had a real proposal. I am in the business world, but lead the kind of life so many girls of my type do, socially aimless. Dancing is the only thing we miss out on, as our salaries amply supply us with all other amusements. My life is full of interests and really quite satisfactory. But I sometimes wonder if I have become old and cynical, and if I am making my independence a fetish. Is there a danger of that?
BACHELOR GIRL.

Answer:
Yes, I think there is a very real danger of the woman who enjoys her independence making a god of it and sacrificing too much to it. We women are likely to run to extremes, you know, and we are a bit crazy now with the joy of having broken the fetters that have bound our sex so long with our first experience of freedom.

Peanut Butter Specialties
Peanut butter is healthful and nutritious, and its flavor not only delights children but grown-ups as well. Besides being a superior food for sandwiches you will find the deliciousness of peanut butter used in bread, muffins and cookies adds a real taste thrill. The delicious nutty flavor of the following peanut butter recipes makes them a general favorite, and it is always an occasion for rejoicing when they are served.

Peanut Butter Bread
1 cup sugar 2 1/2 cups flour
2-3 cup peanut butter 3 tps baking powder
1 egg 1 cup milk
Cream peanut butter and sugar together. Add well beaten egg to milk. Sift flour and baking powder. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with the milk. Bake in a bread pan in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. about 45 minutes. Makes 1 loaf.

Peanut Butter Muffins
2 cups flour 2-3 cup peanut butter
2 tps baking powder 4 tps shortening
1 tsp salt 2 eggs
1 cup sugar 1 cup milk
Sift dry ingredients. Combine peanut butter and shortening until well blended. Add well beaten egg combined with milk. Mix thoroughly. Bake in well greased muffin pans in a moderate oven 375 degrees F.

Cheesecake Peanut Butter Cookies
2 tps butter 1 square melted chocolate
1 cup sugar 1 cup sifted cake flour
1 egg 1 tsp salt
1 cup peanut butter 1 tps baking powder
1 cup milk
Cream butter, add sugar and blend. Add well beaten egg and peanut butter and beat all thoroughly. Add melted chocolate. Sift dry ingredients and add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Drop by spoonfuls onto well greased cookie sheet, pressing half a peanut into each cookie. Bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F. 15 minutes, watching baking carefully. This makes about 24 cookies.

Look over dahlia bulbs stored away for the winter. If they seem dry or shriveled sprinkle them with water.

In cleaning enamel and porcelain bathroom articles, be careful not to use too strong a solution of cleansing material. One cause of difficulty in removing water stains from some tubs may be found in the fact that the finish has been partially removed by too severe cleaning.

Thin slices of lemons, oranges, limes or grapefruit, sprinkled with sugar and boiled 10 minutes, make effective and tasty garnishes for roasts or fowls. Red or green jelly dotted on top of the slices, gives added color and flavor.

Always keep perfume in a dark place. Daylight will affect every odor differently, according to its formula. In extreme cases perfume turns bright red as soon as it has been exposed to the sun.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

Many bright college graduates, think they are being very modern when they make insane suggestions like Esther's. The human race outgrows such childishness thousands of years ago. Perhaps we should blame the colleges for not teaching some common sense or "horse sense" along with sophistry and theories.

CASE L-156—Esther V., aged 25, is the fiancée of Harold whom we discussed in yesterday's case. "She is the only girl I have ever wanted to marry," he announced. "She is pretty intelligent, a college graduate and just generally attractive."

"However, she seems to be a little jittery about marriage, for her parents get a divorce after more than 25 years together."

"She suggests that we engage in a trial marriage for a few weeks to see how we get along."

"I vetoed the idea, for it didn't seem the right thing to do. What do you think of her suggestion, Dr. Crane?"

DIAGNOSIS: Although it isn't as widely discussed in the magazines and newspapers as it was a few years ago, there is still too much trial marriage being engaged in among young people.

In the business world it is an established axiom that trial orders should not be encouraged. Salesmen are to sell their wares on an outright basis, and not weakly submit to a trial order. Why?

Because as soon as we feel we are just testing an item, we sit back indolently but critically, and make no active effort to produce success. Merchants don't push the "trial order" line of goods.

In trial marriage the same situation also occurs. The boy and girl seem to think that the marriage must prove its own success without sacrifice and active effort on their part.

Entirely aside from the moral implications, trial marriage is a juvenile throwback to barbaric conditions. There is nothing new about it. The human race outgrew such childish customs thousands of years ago.

Trial Marriages are Kid Stuff
Here is a psychological fact that most people don't know. The woman obtains very little physical pleasure out of the marital relationship, at least for many months after marriage.

Should Have Led Club to Win Contract

LAST TUESDAY'S QUESTION
Question 10: Opponents reach three no trump without mentioning a suit and without a bid from yourself or partner. You become the opening leader. You hold:
♠ 5 4 ♥ 10 9 ♦ Q 8 7 3 ♣ J 6 2
What card do you lead?

Answer: Correct lead is heart jack. This is far safer than a lead of any other suit, and is even more constructive. A "conventional" lead of the "fourth best" diamond would be very foolish, since the diamond suit is very weak and it is extremely unlikely that it can be established for even two tricks. (Twenty points demerit for diamond three lead, 40 points demerit for any other lead.)

West opened the spade queen as the safest discernible lead. Declarer won with the king, returned a trump to the ace, and discovered a spade loser was unavoidable. He then took the heart finesse, losing to West's queen. West cashed the high spade, and in obedience to East's high club signal, shifted to a club. The contract was down before declarer really had caught his breath.

Declarer beelved vociferously over his "hard luck" in losing the heart finesse and finding a 3-1 trump break. Actually, he had only himself to blame for his defeat. There was one other splendid possibility which he had overlooked entirely. Of course, he could do nothing about the trump break, but most certainly he should have deferred the heart finesse until he had investigated another line of play. That was to lead a club from dummy in the hope of finding the jack in East's hand. Actually, of course, East had the A K J, and two successive club leads from dummy would easily have established South's club queen, so that a heart could be thrown off from dummy. This would have permitted the ruffing of the third round of hearts, a far better chance to bring home the heart suit without loss than the 50-50 percentage involved in the finesse.

husband's brother-in-law stay in my house for several days? He comes from another town and has been in my house with his wife both before my husband died and since. His own wife, who was my sister-in-law, died recently. My house is large and there are ample accommodations but is the idea direct? We are both middle-aged.

Answer: I cannot see that having one who is a very near relative by marriage spend a few days as your guest could possibly cause any unpleasant comment. You have not said a thing which another person can do a thing which another person can do. This is entirely due to the trust or lack of trust with which each individual is held. One who has always been dignified and well behaved is not likely to be criticized, ever.

Force Won't Do in Place of Understanding in Classroom

BY ANGELO PATRI
"This class of boys is difficult, Miss Shine. They're just at the age when they can't control themselves and resent outside control. They'll have to be handled carefully. What do you think about taking them? I could give them to Miss Caroline, but she is rather tired after struggling with the last group. I'd like to rest her up a little this term."

"I am perfectly willing to take them. I'm a disciplinarian if I'm anything. I've never had a class that I couldn't conquer."

"Well, I'm not certain that they need conquering. I think they need coaxing along. They're a restless lot, full of play, but they're not defiant or disorderly. I don't mean to say they are bad boys, you know. I hope you can get along with them."

The principal's hesitancy determined Miss Shine's decision. She could and she would govern that class. In that spirit she took them over. She was a good teacher, conscientious, ambitious for the success of her pupils. She would show the principal and these children what good work really was.

Miss Shine set the stage for discipline. The room was shaded, the books and the maps and the pencils and pads were all set precisely. Everything shone except the teacher's face. That was set like an iron mask. She uttered no sound when the class filed in. Each took expectantly at the new teacher, got no sign of response, and passed to his seat. After an hour of silent, strained work the reaction set in. Somebody coughed. That cough went round the room and back again. Miss Shine knew the hour had struck.

"The next boy who coughs is going to wish he hadn't," she said sternly. The whole set, with one hoarse voice, coughed loudly, violently, repeatedly. When the attack seemed to be passing, somebody over in the far corner began again, was strengthened by recruits, and once more the welkin rang with hoarse whoops and grunts and cacklings.

Miss Shine opened the windows and gave orders for setting-up drill. The class went into action and did very well. The strain had been relieved for that time anyway. Geography lesson was announced. The class was ordered to take books, find answers to five questions written on the board and write them carefully. After twenty minutes of this, and the prospect of many more ahead, somebody giggled. Round and round the giggle went until it

With disarming capriciousness, Geraldine Farrar, begins her autobiography, "Such Sweet Compulsion," with this admission: "I am over half a century young as I write these lines."

Her beauty refutes her written statement. For today, this beloved song-bird of opera's Golden Age, radiates the same personal loveliness which endeared her to audiences of two continents. The incomparable "Gerry" is a perennial charmer!

Beauty Second Only to Voice
From her earliest years Miss Farrar considered physical beauty of primary importance—second only to the training of her rich, lovely voice! When she made her American debut in 1906 a leading music critic commented: "What may this girl not do? When Farrar twisted her little form into its turquoise wrapping, as she spun out the waltz's final tinge, she could have wound that audience around her little finger. Such serpentine grace has not been observed since the Carters and the Bernharts!"

And from her own penned words we glean a devotion to her femininity to this very year—and lovely beauty her secret of being a leading beauty at "half a century young!"

She never begrudged a penny for a handsome wardrobe, on or off stage. It has often been said—and men have liked to believe—that women dressed for their approbation. But I do not agree to this; I dressed, for my part, primarily for my public and always because I personally love pretty things; to this day, my extravagances are in the had a break," he observed. "Run back and get into your bib and tucker. You're driving to Carstedt with me. We'll be back by ten o'clock, you can sleep the rest of the day."

Obviously Kathleen went to the room, laughed a little at the reflection, and reported to Bridget she off on a lark.

"It will do you good," Bridget assured her. "And while you're away, forget everything."

This was more than Kathleen could do. She drove down to Neutrality, conscious that the Gregory miners, enroute to their work on the day shift were watching her, probably condemning her for being late. She was aware of glances which wanted to be hostile and didn't quite achieve it, when they stopped before the MacDonalds for breakfast she hadn't had. She waved to the men on the Gregoryside and they doffed their hats.

Mayne served them and beamed on them like a white-aproned cupid. "What did I tell you?" she questioned and Kathleen couldn't retort without revealing to the man across from her that Mayne had prophesied he would "go" for her.

And when they were on the lower highway, the astonishing world of green and orange cliffs, scarlet boulders and natural monuments of pearly white about them.

"Why is it the MacDonald miners manage so much better than the Gregorys?" she queried. "I mean aside from their homes. There isn't such a tremendous difference in their wages, is there?"

homes and the hotel; the stores and the theater. The town is paying me a little at a time. I wanted them to have the feeling of individual ownership."

A Fighter
Kathleen looked at him curiously. Then he had had no more encouragement than she was getting. But he was a fighter and a man. Well, she straightened, she was also a fighter.

"That still doesn't answer my question," she demurred. "I want the difference in positive terms."

"The main reason is abstract. Have you ever lived in a place like the Gregorys' cots, and thought you'd never know anything better?"

"Goodness, no."

"You'd become saturated with hopelessness and helplessness, especially when you realized that generations before you had existed in this way without change and generations after you would doubtless continue the same way. As Old Balmy would say, 'your spirit would don its grave clothes and wait for death.' But given hope and the promise of a different future, you'd find your spirit in sunspits, making the most of every day and the most of every opportunity. And there's where the difference in dollars and cents comes in. I doubt if you've ever had to buy food for a large family on a small salary, a large portion of which has to go for illness brought on by poor housing. If you had you'd appreciate the 'jar' closet Mrs. Arthur showed you. Everything in that, excepting the fruit which I had brought in in carload lots and sold at cost, was grown on her own land. You might say that was poor business on my part, but it wasn't. I learned in that first money that the miners had more money to spend on other things."

"Too bad the Gregorys don't follow suit," said Kathleen with a yawn that wouldn't be stifled.

"I don't blame them... now," MacDonald defended. "They'll have to close down next spring; why waste all of that money on a ghost town?"

Kathleen tried to control her start. She'd never before thought

Germans, Italians Are Not Unhappy, Griffiths States

They Have Confidence in Their Dictators, Students Told

Contrary to popular belief among Americans, German and Italian people are not really discontented and depressed, but are confident in their faith and in their leaders, Dr. Joseph H. Griffiths, professor of psychology at Lawrence college, told students at convocation this morning.

In answer to the charge that Hitler is steadily undermining German culture, Dr. Griffiths said: "I still believe in the basic integrity of the German people. I have faith in their great appreciation of culture and their great interest in scientific progress and development, in spite of the attempts of the Nazi government to specify a rack into which all art and literature must fall and has, therefore, stilted progress in these fields."

"The people of Germany today seem to me to be happy and contented under the Nazi regime. The Germans and Austrians regard Hitler as a savior and feel deeply indebted to him for the progress and power he has given their countries. Hitler is a modern miracle and we shall never understand him unless we deeply probe the German people and their acceptance of Hitler."

Dr. Griffiths said he is convinced the German people are solidly behind Hitler. If not, why do they put up with him at all? I'm pretty well convinced that the Nazi regime is in Germany to stay for a long time."

Dr. Griffiths said he found equal contentment among Italian people, living under a Fascist doctrine. The Italian people have great faith and confidence in Mussolini, he said.

MAYOR GETS IN ON HALLOWEEN FUN

Here are a couple of the WPA costume parade prize winners, perched on Mayor Goodland's knees. More than 4,000 persons were jammed into the area in front of city hall to see the awarding of the prizes, see and hear the nine acts of vaudeville and to listen to the WPA orchestra from Oshkosh. And the kids and grown-ups as well had a grand time. The little girl in the picture is Mary Louise Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Brown, 615 W. Eighth street. # Appleton's First Halloween Costume Parade Is Success; 4,000 Persons See Program

Appleton's first Halloween costume parade and pavement dance went over with a great bang as more than 4,000 persons jammed, squeezed and squirmed for places in the area in front of city hall last night.

The weather was a bit chippy for an outdoor party but the large crowd of kids and parents stayed on until the last act was presented and showed their appreciation with loud rounds of applause.

In the parade, which started down College avenue at 7 o'clock, were youngsters made up as goblins, pumpkins, witches, pirates, Spaniards, tramps, skeletons and almost every traditional Halloween characterization.

Mayor Goodland and several other city officials who were on the reviewing stand said they had more fun last night than in the 'good old days' when they were kids and farmed forth on Halloween night to play the usual pranks. The demonstration was staged by the WPA recreational division under the direction of Mrs. Hazel F. Bannister, county director.

Crowd Jams Area

Judges had a hectic time trying to pick out the winners in the various classes because the large crowd pressed towards the stand and left little space for the youngsters in costume to stand. However, the job finally was completed and the winners picked.

The prizes for the most elaborate costumes went to Jimmy Howard, dressed as a Spaniard, and to Mary Louise Brown, dressed in a blue sat-in gown. Janice Krull was a Spanish miss paired with Jimmy.

Guy Thompson, dressed as a huge pumpkin, won the boy's prize for the most fantastic costume while Jaunita Gill, dressed as Snow White of seven dwarfs fame, won the girls' prize.

In the most original division, Jack Maxwell, dressed as a big bad pirate, won the boys' prize and Johannes Weber, who was Suzie Q, took the girls' division. She was accompanied by her brother, Ronald Weber, dressed in top hat and tails.

Funnies Costumes

Bobby Spoerl, in a Donald Duck mask and tail feathers, drew one of the prizes for the funniest costume and Rosanne Riley, dressed as a tramp with a beard, won the other.

The prize for the queerest costume in the boys' division went to James Dehne, who was dressed as a skeleton. Jean Thompson won the girls' division with a witches costume.

The cutest costumes were worn by Gerald Lautenschlagel, who was dressed as a little old lady, and

Asks Probe of Postage Free Cards Sent on Behalf of Duffy

Milwaukee—(P)—The senate campaign expenditures committee was asked by Edward A. Bacon, vice chairman of the Republican state central committee, to investigate today "what appears to be a possible misuse of the congressional franking privilege" in behalf of Senator F. Ryan Duffy, Democratic candidate for reelection.

Informed of Bacon's request, Duffy said:

"Well, they haven't tried kidnapping yet. This is a last desperate effort to discredit a clean campaign which I have carried on without any resort to mud slinging. It is their only hope of electing a disciple of Herbert Hoover."

Bacon said he had addressed to Senator Morris Sheppard, chairman of the committee, a telegram reading in part:

"May I call the attention of your committee to what appears to be a possible misuse of the congressional franking privilege and what further appears to be a matter demanding immediate investigation as a possible violation of the federal corrupt practices act."

"Campaign Literature"

"There is being sent out over Wisconsin during this week a franked postcard communication to the voters of this state an obvious piece of campaign literature in behalf of Senator Duffy by Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, who recently came into Wisconsin to urge Senator Duffy's reelection.

"The postcard, being sent out postage free, is an excerpt from a speech made by Senator Barkley in behalf of Senator Duffy at a testimonial dinner at Fond du Lac, Wis., on Feb. 5, 1938."

Bacon claimed further, in the telegram sent last night, that "we have evidence" another postcard in Duffy's behalf is being prepared under the postage free franking privilege of Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana. This contains President Roosevelt's personal endorsement of Mr. Duffy."

Sets Cost at $24,000

"If these two mailings are being sent to every voter in Wisconsin the total cost, avoided by abuse of the franking privilege, is $24,000," Bacon said.

The telegram said the cards apparently were printed at the government printing office at Washington, D. C., and do not show a union label. Bacon said that on the face of the cards is the notation, "not printed at government expense."

"While this plant undoubtedly prints this material at a much lower cost than any commercial plant," Bacon wrote, "the printing must have cost something and we assume that either Senator Duffy or Senator Barkley and Minton have paid this bill."

"We insist that this matter deserves the immediate attention of your committee."

Duffy said "There is absolutely nothing unlawful or illegal in circulating extracts of a speech which has been printed in the congressional record, and Mr. Bacon knows that," and added:

"When Governor LaFollette's speech launching a new party was circulated throughout the state someone complained to me but I answered that as the speech had been printed in the congressional record that there was no cause for complaint."

"Perhaps Mr. Bacon does not know that the Republican national committee circulated millions of post cards under government frank setting forth the Republican argument about imports and exports."

Halloween Pranks of Minor Nature Provide Work for Housewives

Appleton had an unusually quiet Halloween last night, though many pranks of minor nature were being reported to police this morning.

Workmen of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company were busy today replacing street bulbs which were broken during the night by youths using sling-shots or throwing stones. Many lights were dropped to within a few feet of the street by youngsters who climbed poles and loosened the chains holding the lights.

Some housewives had some added work to do today with the cleaning of their front porches which they found strewn with cabbage leaves or splashed with tomatoes and other refuse. Several persons forgot it was Halloween and last night put out their rubbish for collection today only to find it spread about their lawns this morning.

In some places street signs were removed and set on porches. One person said he found the cap of a water hydrant on his porch.

A good number of homes had their porch lights on throughout the evening as a discouraging measure to pranksters. There was, however, the usual soaping of windows.

DRUNK IS FINED

Al Maley, Kaukauna, pleaded guilty of drunkenness and was fined $10 and costs with an alternative of 20 days in the county detention camp by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Maley was arrested by Kaukauna police.

Granaries Filled With Corn as U.S. Loans Fall Due

Old and New Crop Pouring Into Principal Markets

Chicago—(P)—Granaries throughout the farm belt were unusually well stocked with corn today as government loans to 49,000 farmers on almost 48,000,000 bushels fell due.

Visible supplies at terminal centers increased 7,945,000 bushels last week as old and new corn poured into the principal markets. Heavy marketing of old and new corn at the same time is unusual in the grain trade. The total United States visible supply of 24,674,000 bushels, while not large in comparison with country stocks, was 600 per cent greater than a year ago and the largest for the date since 1934.

Country elevators, too, bulged with corn and farmers throughout the belt hastened construction of new cribs. Lumber dealers reported brisk demand for materials.

Corn is selling in Chicago at approximately 45 cents, near the lowest price level in almost five years.

Supply Double Average

The largest figures on old corn supplies on farms showed approximately 350,000,000 bushels of 1937 crop grain has not been fed or marketed. The amount of loans was scarcely 14 per cent of this total. A year ago old stocks on farms totaled only 60,000,000 bushels. The 1938 supply is double that of the average in any of the last 10 years.

Uncle Sam is owner of part of the old corn now crowding storage and transportation facilities. How much has been defaulted on loans, however, could not be determined. Commodity Credit corporation officials here said they had no idea but they said the peak of the movement had passed, with carloadings in the country declining.

The government agency expects to sell some corn back to farmers for feeding, to distribute some in relief channels and to store some for normal merchandising later.

Corn not turned over to the government for shipment may be fed or resold on new loans at 57 cents a bushel, 7 cents over the old rate. The government expects to lend money on possibly as much as 300,000,000 bushels of 1938 corn and farmers who expected to take advantage of this offer are storing their corn in cribs.

Complete Walk Link to New Senior High School

A sidewalk on Packard street, connecting the present walk with the trunk line on Badger avenue, was completed Monday by the Fred Lillge construction company. The walk is one of the last of new walks laid in the high school area this summer.

It Is Said--

That John E. Hantschel, Outagamie county clerk, was wearing a sweet pea in the lapel of his coat this morning. The sweet pea was one of several picked from his garden this morning, he said, which have escaped the frosts thus far this fall.

That John E. Hantschel, Outagamie county clerk, used a novel means of informing his family of the date he landed at St. Nazaire, France, with the Rainbow division during the World war. He knew that he could not put the date into the letter sent home because it would not pass censors. He said instead that the regiment landed on his birthday. That was 21 years ago yesterday.

That municipal court employees had the task of counting 600 pennies which were paid by a motorist fined for a traffic law violation. The fine was $5 and costs $3.95. The motorist was given a nickel so the court has the 800 pennies.

That Charles Gosha, 97-year-old veteran of the Civil war and one of Appleton's two remaining veterans, climbed city hall stairs yesterday to have a chat with Mayor Goodland. The aged veteran told the mayor he "never felt better in his life."

That "get-rich-quick" schemes have a way of dying out and then coming back to life every so often. Proof of this is the recent appearance of chain letters in Appleton.

Neenah, Menasha Grid Coaches Laud Each Other's Teams in Talks at Lions Club Meeting

Menasha — What was intended to be a preview of the annual Neenah-Menasha high school football game at the Lions club meeting at Hotel Menasha Monday morning turned out to be a mutual admiration society when Coach N. A. Calder of the Bluejays and Coach George Christoph of the Red Rockets took turns in praising the other's team.

Calder was called on first because his team won the game last year. He admitted that he had a good defensive fullback and a couple of pretty fair halfbacks but declared that he'd like to have an offensive player like Kettering on his team any time. He also mentioned that Neenah had some good linemen.

Calder recalled that about 13 years ago there was some discussion as to where the annual game should be played because Neenah had only the Greens and there were no goal posts. Christoph is reported to have ended that argument by saying, "You won't need them this year."

Calder gave his talk in a husky baritone because of a cold that he has had for the last month. When it came Christoph's turn, the Neenah coach declared that he hoped the cold would improve so the Calder could give his team the customary oration between halves. In fact, Christoph wanted Calder to come and give the same talk to the Neenah boys because it apparently was effective.

Always a Battle
"The game always is a battle and is hard to predict," Christoph stated. He declared that Menasha took its football more seriously and played the game with a zip. Neenah has been an "in and out" team, playing a good half and then a bad half. Christoph poured the praise on when he declared that Menasha had been as good a high school team as any around here in the West DePere game and has been coming up since then.

Christoph declared that Calder had seen Neenah play more than he had himself and "knows my plays as well as I do. In fact, he sometimes says to me, 'Why don't you use that play more?' But before the Neenah-Menasha game I notice a change. He suggests the plays that aren't working so well. I may be hard-headed but I can see through that."

The Neenah team will be bolstered for the annual tilt with the return of Vanderwalker, co-captain and guard. Christoph mentioned that he had been out of most of the last two seasons. In the first quarter of the second game in the last two seasons Vanderwalker has broken his collarbone on the same blocking assignment.

Best of Friends
One of the Lions club members suggested that Christoph change the blocking assignments while Calder said, "Don't run that play against us."

Although the two coaches have been gridiron rivals for many years they are the best of friends. Christoph recalled that before the game last year they went to the officials and with sober faces, declared that they were going to put 12 men on the field, one man behind each team. That man was to enter the huddles and call the plays because neither team had a quarterback, the two explained. A. C. Denny smelled a mouse though and the game was played with the customary 11 men on a side.

Christoph wished the Menasha team luck, both in its game Saturday again at Kaukauna and against Neenah. He declared that Calder was a fine sportsman and if he had to lose game each year, he'd just as soon have it be to Calder.

American Bombers Used by Japanese, Dr. Talbot Claims

Church Speaker Describes Slaughter of Chinese Civilians

Neenah — Charging that American planes powered by American gasoline drop American bombs on Chinese women and children, Dr. C. C. Talbot, Changsha, Hunan province, China, guest speaker at First Evangelical church Monday evening, declared "yet it is said that the situation is not our responsibility and does not concern us. It may concern us very much tomorrow for Japan seeks to conquer Asia and then the world. We hope that China will wear Japan out but if she doesn't, there are those who say that, together with the Chinese population, dominated by Japan who will have control of China's natural resources, nothing will stop Japan."

Dr. Talbot, who has been in China since 1904 except for infrequent forays to the United States, stated that on the boat on which he returned to American in July, "there were tons of Japanese toys which will be sold in America to get more money to buy more bullets to maim more Chinese children. Is it your responsibility, your concern?"

The ruthlessness of the Japanese warfare is not propaganda, emphasized the speaker, as he declared, "I know it to be true. Japan deliberately tried to make the warfare ruthless to prove to the Chinese that further resistance was useless. I was in Canton when it was bombed and while en route to the seaport from where I was to sail for America, I saw the bombing of the boat population in the river which was nothing more than ruthless slaughter."

Steckers copped high team honors, rolling a series of 2,724 and a game of 937. Jung's Beers rolled second high series with 2,631, and the A. and P. Store spilled second high game with 924.

Derides Propaganda
The speaker derided much of the Japanese propaganda about forcing China from oppression of the war lords as he declared, "there may have been oppression by war lords 10-12 years ago but not in recent years. It is known that Japan has systematically supported war lord against war lord in China."

Dr. Talbot told of the progress of China in recent years, of her broad educational program, of the railroads and highways that have been constructed, of the recreation programs for the young boys and girls, of the high schools which are supported by four missions of which the Evangelical mission is one, of the Yale Union High school and college for medicine. He told of the destruction of many high schools and the reorganization of those schools farther inland for Chinese leaders to relieve "it is the children, the youth, who will form the nucleus for rehabilitation of the nation."

Understanding Is Basis of Culture, Lions Club Is Told

Menasha High School Teacher Addresses Neenah Meeting

Neenah — Mutual understanding effected through observation, study, and working together is a basic factor in cultural growth, William J. Chappis, Menasha high school teacher, told members of the Neenah Lions club in a talk on "Culture for the Everyday Man" at a noon meeting Tuesday at the Valley Inn.

"Culture," according to the instructor of languages, "demands a reciprocity of action, an endless procedure of give and take. It is not enough for one to grow in himself; it is also necessary for one to appreciate the similar growth in another."

Contending that the growth of human understanding may be exercised by any ordinary, thinking individual, Chappis said that "unfortunately, the term 'culture' has acquired a derogatory connotation in the minds of many laymen because of misunderstanding and the sad imitation of the true culture on the part of the pretentious. 'Mental cultivation,' though a longer expression, is a much happier way of expressing it," he proposed.

Greatest Study
"The greatest of studies is the study of mankind, the most baffling and the most intricate of beings," the high school teacher claimed. "In our everyday relationships," he said, "we are mutual examiners and students. As a college dean once put it: 'Ever since God put Adam and Eve to the test in the Garden of Eden, man has been subject to examination.' And if we remember correctly, they both flunked that test."

The instructor showed forms of cultural expression and taste that are available only to the wealthy and those, "the more humanly vital ones," which may be anyone's for the mere use of systematic observation and active common sense. He elaborated on these points through dramatized illustrations of actual observation to show the meaning in everyday life. He demonstrated how culture may be seen on a football field, in a factory, in engineering, in chemistry and in the simple expression of daily needs.

Saying that "True culture in many communities is at a deplorably low ebb," the instructor told the Lions that "Man, by nature an inquisitive being, his mind craving to fill that emptiness of mind, led by design, studies his fellow-men and grows in culture."

"Man's character," he continued, "may be observed through his speech, reactions through situations and his environments."

Speaking on the lack of culture in cities, Chappis said, "Too many are rampanly holding the lightning on the feeble strength of few generalities beyond which there are too few around to see. There is a startling amount of human cultural energy lying stagnant because many lack all necessary knowledge and control of the numerous small parts which constitute things in their fulness. Much of our society is trying to do the equivalent of hiring a large Soo Line freight car and a locomotive to deliver only a single package of moldy sawdust from Menasha to Neenah. There is an endless and ever-increasing exertion of hardly anything more than physical power carrying very little to deliver at any social or cultural function. If we humans only knew the potential beauty the god of nature has planted in our souls."

"The best thing that the ruling generation can do for the rising generation is to make certain that it is entrusting its youth to those who may be looked up to as specimens of the real thing and not blustering imitations and fawning banquet hall characters," Chappis told the Lions.

Menasha Halloween Damage Reported as Relatively Slight

Menasha — Although there were a large number of Menasha youngsters parading in masks and sheets and engaging in Halloween mischief Monday night, damage was relatively slight, according to Police Chief Alex Stomski. Only 15 calls were received at the Menasha police station.

A number of youths were collared by Menasha police and ordered to report at the police station tonight. While the policemen were patrolling their beats a number of youngsters piled leaves into cars, which were parked at the city hall next to the police station. Mayor W. H. Jensen had his car filled with leaves but chuckled, "That will make good bedding for my ponies."

And while the youngsters were enjoying themselves, some older people also were engaging in Halloween pranks. Harold Berro, cashier at the water and light office, heard a tap-tapping at his window. He finally investigated and found a tick-tack had been fastened there with a fishline leading across the way to a neighbor's home. Berro took hold of the fishline and pulled it in. The neighbor came over to collect later.

During the month the library staff mended 484 books. Fines collected amounted to $14.84. New books released for circulation numbered 269.

Twin City Deaths

KENNETH DIETZ
Menasha — Kenneth John Dietz, 7-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dietz, 323 1/2 Garfield avenue, died at the home of his parents Sunday morning after an illness of only one day. He was born Sept. 9 1938.

Thumb of Land Extending Into Lake Winnebago Develops Into Exclusive Residence District

Menasha — Where Winnebago Indians moccasined feet once wore footpaths to teepees along the lake, where once the sound of tom-toms called the chiefs to council fires, there is now one of the newest lake shore developments in Menasha, the exclusive plot north of Nicolet boulevard that extends like a substantial thumb into Lake Winnebago and part of the Fox River. The land once belonged to Mrs. Nettie Bergstrom whose berry patches on that swampy island were her prize. Several years ago, Donald Turner purchased the land from the Bergstrom estate, directed some dredging and filling in and built the road onto the island. The Turner home, at the very point of the island, is an early American colonial of white washed brick which fronts the lake.

Indian relics, beads, arrowheads, and pieces of Indian pottery were turned up when foundations were dug for the homes that have been built on this island plot. There are seven homes on the little island now, about the limit of the development. A private road for the owners extends from Nicolet boulevard across a small bridge to the garages of the residences.

Huge Elm Tree
Dr. and Mrs. G. N. Pratt were the first to build their home on the island. The house is southern colonial with large pillars fronting the home that overlooks Lake Winnebago. On the front lawn of the Pratt home is a huge and aged elm tree of which older residents of Menasha can tell many stories. On this island too, the Pratt's young son pursues his hobby, the raising of pigeons, near his home, and Sally Ann keeps chickens, not many, but enough for Sally Ann.

Following the Turner's, the third family to take up residence on the island were the W. H. Swanson's, whose home is a reproduction of a New England farmhouse. "Twin Shores" is an appropriate name for this home because both the lake shore and the river shore on their land are identical according to surveys.

Georgian architecture marks the Gavin Young, Jr., home on the island and Dr. and Mrs. Fred Jensen have incutted French provincial design in their home. Both families have lots that have lake and river frontage.

The Kimberly Stuart home, most recent addition to the island, portrays the new architecture which builds around what is desired inside. To secure the fullest beauty of the lake view, this home has been almost fronted in glass.

Another home on this island, as one leaves Nicolet boulevard, is the Chester Shepard residence, which includes the land from the road to the bridge that crosses the small creek made by dredging.

Halloween Pranks Result in Costly Damage at Neenah

Three Boys Arrested and Fined for Breaking Arterial Sign

Neenah — Arrested by Neenah police during one of the most destructive Halloween pranks in several years, three Neenah high school boys were arraigned before Justice Gaylor C. Lochner in court this morning.

The boys were ordered to pay the damage they did and each fined $1 and costs. They also were reprimanded severely.

Because the boys are members of the football team and will be busy until after Nov. 11 when the annual Neenah-Menasha grid game will be played, they were given until Nov. 30 to pay for the damage, fines and costs. The justice ordered that they get out and earn the money themselves. They can't get the money from their parents and must show that they earned it.

Police Kept Busy

Neenah police were kept busy until after midnight, answering calls and investigating pranks which resulted in destruction.

A preliminary checkup by police this morning showed that more than 10 street lights were broken and well over 20 arterial stop signs were either damaged or missing.

About 19 pranksters were arrested by police and locked in the jail. At about 11:30, police started releasing them, two at a time.

Police Chief C. H. Watts said that those who were arrested have been told to report to the police station at 3 o'clock this afternoon. "We may press charges against some of them," he threatened.

Break Stop Sign

The three boys who appeared in court were arrested for breaking an arterial stop sign. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

The usual pranks, of course, prevailed. Another nuisance which plagued the police was shooting of fireworks which started shortly after 10 o'clock.

Street lights, suspended over the middle of intersections and which are lowered and raised by ropes, received the most damage. The pranksters climbed the poles and released the ropes, letting the lights crash to the street. Bulbs and shades were broken.

Menasha Arrests In Sharp Decline

Drunken Driving, Speeding Top October Convictions

Menasha — Arrests in Menasha showed a sharp decline during October as compared with the preceding month, according to the report of Police Chief Alex Slomski to the fire and police commission. During October there were 18 arrests while during September there were 35.

Drunken driving and speeding were the leading causes for arrest during the month with five convictions on each charge. During September, speeding topped the number of arrests with six.

In addition, during October there were three arrests for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, three for reckless driving and one for passing an arterial stop sign.

Property valued at $418 was recovered by the police department and returned to the owners. One hundred complaints were taken care of and merchants' doors were found open on 11 occasions. Two larcenies were reported.

Menasha Fire Loss Is $10 During Last Month

Menasha — Although the Menasha fire department made five runs during October, the total fire loss responded to during the month was only $10, according to the monthly report of Paul Theimer, chief of the fire department, to the police and fire commission. Most of the calls were for chimney fires or because gasoline or kerosene burners flooded and burst into flame.

In addition there was one fire with a small amount of damage to which the fire department was not called. During September the fire department made only one run. That was on a false alarm.

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood — To a preview last night — and home, musing on the inconsistencies of movie stars. The usual mob of star-gazers surrounded the foyer, shoving, elbowing, applauding and begging autographs.

Roped off under the marquee was the stars promenade, a public address system at one end and a battery of spotlights at the other. And, one after another, the stars who have about "How-I-hate-the-curiosity-of-the-pressing-public" peacocked up the aisle-dressed in their starriest duds and loving it!

How Marlene Dietrich used to froth resentment because her fans intruded on her privacy! She wore pants to previews — just to escape notice. How Katherine Hepburn, clad in patched overalls, used to beec because people stared! One day I heard Brian Donlevy moaning that public curiosity makes him feel like a goldfish in a bowl — and the next time I saw him he was driving down the Boulevard in a black-long chromiumped sport job, wearing dark glasses, an Alpine hat, a green overcoat and a neck scarf that would make a tropical sunset look colorless.

Such inconsistencies are a laughable part of the actorish psychology. Like the adolescent boy who sneers at "dames" while secretly longing for romance, John and Jane Star are always posing as one thing — and bending over backward to be another. There are times, though, when I wish that some of our celebrities who wait the loudest about the loss of their privacy would try to be a bit less conspicuous.

The best informal amateur fights in town are to be found at the Bubblehki Cafe — a fashionable nite spot midway between Hollywood and Beverly Hills which is heavily patronized by the sportier movie crowd. It was there that Tom Brown hung one on Lee Bowman. That scrap, which harvested a lot of publicity, was a main event, but the nightly brawls are almost as interesting. Not infrequently there are "mixed matches," with a girl making a fistie pass at her boy friend.

The Bubblehki, in keeping with its name, features Russian drinks. Maybe there's an unusually beligerent quality in vodka.

Odd-Formation: Since the "Jesse James" company brought prosperity to Pineville, Mo., three Mid-west towns have sent Chamber of Commerce representatives to Hollywood to drum up business. Just before

When a studio electrician yells "Sharks!" he merely wants the arc lights turned on. Give Frances Farmer an idle moment and, nine times out of ten, she'll work on a hooked rug. Joan Valerie used to be a professional poetess — and she still indulges. Constant practice has given Slim Summerville amazing accuracy with a rubber band and a paper clip. That pint-sized Donald Meek used to be a famous vaudeville acrobat. Highest-salaried actress of the week is ten-day-old Lynn Adkins, paid $75 for thirty seconds work — on a weekly basis, $432,000!

Susan Davis Tells Reading Club How Fox River Carried Traffic of State Pioneers

MISS SUSAN B. DAVIS, who spends her time delving into Wisconsin history when she is not counseling freshmen girls at the University of Wisconsin, where she is assistant dean of women, entertained members of the Reading club and their guests Monday night at the home of Mrs. Clyde Chapelle, 108 N. Green Bay street, with stories of the people who traveled long ago up Wisconsin's "first main street," the Fox river.

For almost 200 of Wisconsin's 300 years of history, Miss Davis pointed out, there was no highway in the state except the waterway of the Fox and Wisconsin rivers. Down this highway went Indians, explorers and fur traders, and later soldiers and pioneers. To protect the fur trade, forts were placed at three important points on the route—Fort Howard at Green Bay, Fort Winnebago at Portage and Fort Crawford at Prairie du Chien.

Jefferson Davis, who was later to become president of the Confederacy, played his part in the history of Wisconsin, Miss Davis said, when he directed the building of Fort Winnebago. Just out of West Point, he was sent here to help with the work.

The first recorded journey through Wisconsin by any other way than boat, Miss Davis continued, was that taken in 1829 by James Duane Doty, Henry S. Baird and Morgan L. Martin, who set out from Green Bay on horseback and arrived safely at Fort Crawford.

It was in 1830, she explained, that the United States government passed a bill providing for the building of two roads in Wisconsin, one from Green Bay to Manitowish and Chicago, and the other from Green Bay to Prairie du Chien, following the Fox-Wisconsin waterway. The Green Bay-Prairie du Chien road was built by the soldiers at the three forts and thus came to be known as the Military road. No highway in the modern sense, it was only a trail about two rods wide, with blazed trees and scattered posts to indicate the direction.

Early Women Travelers
Miss Davis spoke in particular of three women who traveled this rough highway. One of them, Terese Fisher, born at Fort Crawford, moved to Fort Mackinac with her family when she was very young, and at the age of 14 left Mackinac as the bride of Henry S. Baird, first practicing attorney west of Detroit, and settled in Green Bay.

Green Bay was little more than a wilderness then, and Mr. Baird tried cases in the upper part of the log cabin in which they lived, while Indians, witnesses and defendants waited downstairs in the young bride's kitchen. Terese Fisher Baird survived it all, however, and became one of the respected citizens of Green Bay, where she lived for a long time.

Mrs. Baird's writings give an entertaining account of the origin of the name Egg Harbor, in the peninsula north of Green Bay. As told by Miss Davis, on one of the Bairds' trips up to Mackinac the canoes were abundantly loaded with food, including a great quantity of eggs. As the group was resting in a pretty cove off Green Bay, one of the men, for some reason or another put some eggs in his pockets. Some of his companions noticed it, and slapped him heartily in the right places, running his white duck suit.

Egg Bombardment
Immediately the men took sides, went to the canoe for the rest of the eggs and bombarded each other with them. Although some persons say Egg Harbor gets its name from the shape of the stones around there, Miss Davis says she is inclined to give Mrs. Baird's account the credit.

The speaker went on to tell of two other women pioneers in Wisconsin, Juliet McGill Kinsey, who came from New England and lived in the Agency house at Portage, and Mrs. Adele Gratiot, whose mother had been a lady in waiting to Marie Antoinette. Although she came from the aristocracy of St. Louis—her family had founded the city—Adele wrote of her life in the wilderness of Wisconsin not as a hardship but as a camping-out affair and spoke of the good times she had.

So that she would not be considered partial to the ladies, Miss Davis devoted the rest of her lecture to William Stephen Hamilton, youngest son of Alexander Hamilton.

A surveyor in Illinois, the younger Hamilton first came to Wisconsin when he heard that Fort Howard needed cattle for meat to feed the soldiers. So Hamilton bought 700 cattle in Illinois, drove them across the Chicago river up the lake shore to Milwaukee, where Solomon Juneau was probably the only white man at that time, and up to Green Bay, arriving there several days ahead of schedule. He had only four men to help him.

Mrs. Hamilton's Trip
Later he heard of the lead mines in southwestern Wisconsin, hunted for a good place to settle in that region and finally began work in what he called Hamilton's Diggings, in Iowa county. When his mother, Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, was 86 years old, she came to Wisconsin to visit him, making the last part of the journey on horseback.

In 1848 Hamilton heard the westward call again, went to California during the gold rush and died there.

Miss Davis spoke also of the restoration work now being done by women's groups of the state. A sister of Mrs. Edgar V. Werner, Miss Davis is speaking today at a meeting of the Kaukauna Woman's club.

But

Canute Water

Keeps Your Secret!

If you have gray hair, simply wet it with Canute Water and allow to dry. In from 1 to 3 applications (depending on shade), it will be completely re-colored... similar to its former natural shade. All in one day, if you wish. After that, a single treatment, only once a month, will keep it that way.

You may then curl, wave or set your hair — or get a permanent — if you like. The color is also proof against sun, air, salt-water and shampooing.

Canute Water is pure, colorless and crystal-clear, and will leave your hair clean and natural to the touch. Even you, yourself, will be unable to distinguish the re-colored hair from your natural. You will be delighted to see how completely Canute Water solves your problem.

Schmitz Will be Ready Saturday

Squad Will be at Full Strength for Crucial Tilt With 'Cats

MADISON — That Wisconsin's football team will be at full strength for the game with Northwestern at Evanston this Saturday was proven in Monday's practice when Coach Harry Stuhldreher lined up his first two variations in a brisk pass defense drill. The first eleven was the same as that which opened the Marquette and Iowa encounters with the exception of left end where Ralph Moeller has replaced Sophomore Gordy Gile.

Bill Schmitz, the Badgers' ace passer, was at left half where he performed as if his left shoulder had never been injured. Schmitz bore the brunt of the hurling duties and when the varsity went on pass defense against the second team, marked improvement was noticeable. Whether it was improved morale or the addition of Schmitz, the Badger aerial defense looked impregnable, as it has not been in games to date.

Varsity Excused Early
Roy Bellin, who has played at left half since Schmitz was injured in the Pitt game, was shifted back to his old position at right half-back and Sophomore Claude York, who filled in the right half breach for the Purdue and Indiana tilts, was relegated to the second team.

The first varsity, with the exception of Schmitz, was excused from practice early. Schmitz drilled on passing till dusk. His tosses were accurate and there is reason to believe that Stuhldreher plans to boom a few aerials at the Big Ten leaders this Saturday. The Badger passing attack has not been impressive thus far but neither was it in 1932 when the Cats almost upset the 'Cats' by completing 18 out of 30 passes attempted.

Hovland's Cold Goes
Up in the "rough-rout" department, Bob Eckl, Milwaukee junior, appears to have won back a regular position at left tackle. Eckl replaced Veteran Al Dorsch yesterday afternoon. Eckl's smashing defensive tactics in the Indiana tilt drew Stuhldreher's praise. Al Lorenz was at right end, Gene Brod-hagen at right tackle, Jack Murray at center and Blackie O'Brien and Lynn Hovland at the guards. Hovland was confined to the university clinic over the weekend with a severe cold, but has recovered.

Vince Gavre, acting captain for Saturday's game, at quarterback, and Howie Weiss at fullback rounded out the first team lineup.

Tony Gradisnik, varsity left half alternate, who, despite his strained ankle, was able to play for a few minutes against the Hoosiers, will be ready to take over at left half should Schmitz be unable to go the route Saturday.

Weiss, Murray, O'Brien, Moeller and George Paskvan, second string fullback, are others who nurse bruises that will not hamper their play this week. Weiss played less than a half against Indiana but is expected to be in shape to go all the way this Saturday, if necessary.

While the first two teams worked on pass defense and offense, Stuhldreher sent a revised third team through a lengthy offensive scrimmage against the freshmen. The boys are battling to make the traveling squad of 33 which will journey to California for a game with U.C.L.A. two weeks hence.

Reports from Northwestern indicate that a crowd of 40,000 will attend Saturday's tilt which will determine the Big Ten title chances of both teams.

Howard Weiss, University of Wisconsin senior, now playing his third year at fullback on the Badger varsity, is Wisconsin's nominee for All-American honors. According to the Badgers, this young husky whose home is in Fort Atkinson, Wis., "has everything". Weighing 200 pounds and possessing unusual speed and drive, he is the key man in both attack and defense. In four games to date, Weiss has carried the ball on almost half of Wisconsin's plays and has averaged nearly four yards a try, in addition to doing a grand job in blocking, tackling and pass defense. If there is a better fullback on any team, Badger fans have not seen him. Although he has confined his efforts to football at Wisconsin, Weiss is a potential star in other sports and in high school, won the Wisconsin state interscholastic golf championship.

Maertzwiler, Jones and Garvey Praised by McGlynn For Their Work Against Ripon

Editor's note: J. Donald "Stones" McGlynn, one-time Lawrence tackle, and the sports department of the Milwaukee Sentinel, had a lot to talk about and write about after the Lawrence-Ripon game. Today's issue of his paper carried a column story on some of the Vikings and their efforts and here it is:

BERNIE HESELTON, in his first year of coaching at Lawrence college, has lifted the Vikings out of the grid doldrums into a position where they can get no worse than a tie for the Midwest conference title.

But that "ain't" the news. At Novakofski, fleet footed Vike halfback, punts, runs and passes the Vikes into a 14 to 13 upset victory over the Ripon Redmen last Saturday, scoring the winning touchdown on a 30 yard dash in which he showed his mercury heels to the Redmen.

But that "ain't" the news. The news in Bernie's coaching achievement and back of Novakofski's winning performances was the play of three unsung heroes of the grid—little Joe Maertzwiler, quarterback; Vince Jones, giant tackle, and Dick Garvey, a husky young Appletonian, who plays a lot of center.

Little Joe Ideal Leader
We'll take 'em in order: It was Little Joe, squat, stubby legged, who inspired the Vikes, who directed their play, who did a lot of the tackling and a good share of the blocking against the Redmen. He's a great leader—this former East Division lad, and the type of kid who is willing—more than willing—to sacrifice individual glories for the good of the team. He's too short, one would think, to be handy in air defense, but the kid's football sense makes him equally adept in that department, too.

As for Jones, 270 pound tackle and Garvey—they are just about the Viking line. We'd heard that Jones had no charge, and in the defeat at the hands of Carroll he didn't have because both ankles were sprained. But in the week, Heselton put him in there and the big fellow just didn't have it last Saturday. Still far from top form, the big fellow gave the line to his detractors. He blocked one Ripon punt and did practically all the rushing, opened the most effective hole in the line and more than upheld his own in down field play after punts and kicks. If he can play that type of ball with bad weather pinning we'll take him, when fit, for most any club in the country.

Garvey Shows Class
Garvey, with a broken foot also got into action against Carroll and he, too, was not up to the usual Garvey standard. Carroll reserves spins and quick opening slots worked against Garvey the same as it did against the substitute Vike center because his injury made him that fatal step too slow. Like Jones, Garvey got into action against the Redmen when far from in perfect shape, but the difference in his play Saturday and against Carroll was the difference between day and night.

So to those of us who are too prone to overlook the blockers and the mules as we watch the mercury

Lawrence Gridders Given a Day Off for Their Victory Over Ripon; Beloit Is Next

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
LAWRENCE college gridders reaped a reward for their sensational win over Ripon last Saturday, when they were excused from practice Monday afternoon and told to forget football for a day. However, several of the boys reported at the gym for a workout to loosen up muscles while others got rub-downs and bathed a few bumps in hot water and epsom salts.

There appeared to be no new casualties on the club and none of the boys who have been hurt suffered recurrence of injuries. Joe Maertzwiler had a bruised shoulder, and Vince Jones' ankle, which someone stepped on again, was treated rather tenderly as was Dick Garvey's foot and Leroy Lubenow's ankle. "Lube" was slowed up a bit by the injury Saturday but he'll be going again this week.

Heselton Pleased
Coach Bernie Heselton was in a "beautiful" mood last evening and the world was all right and there was nothing to really worry about—even the Beloit game. But today probably will be another story and Bernie will be looking around to learn how Lake Forest managed to crack Beloit so badly. When the season started Heselton was content with one big win; now the Midwest title with Lawrence in the front by a 4 to 0 margin is tantalizing as the dickens.

Saturday's ball game revealed that Lawrence was well scouted by Assistant Coach Red Martin of Ripon but that Red had made one mistake. He remarked here that Vince Jones wasn't so hot as a tackle with the result that the Crimson did most of its rushing over Jones with disastrous results. They stayed away from Lubenow's tackle when actually "Lube" couldn't have taken much punishment because of his injury.

The Story Will Come Later
People who saw the game have commented at length about the Vike pass defense. There's really a story to that but it won't be told here until after Saturday's game, and until the story of Lawrence's failure to use passes against Ripon.

Lawrence goes into its last game of the 1933 season Saturday at Beloit and it will be another homecoming struggle. Lawrence has spoiled two so far this year and aims to make it a perfect record. The Vikes spoiled their own and Ripon's.

Lawrence enters the game leader in the Midwest conference and undefeated. If it manages to cop it will bring home the first Midwest grid title in the school's history. The 1922 team tied for the honor and since then the only grid title Lawrence can claim is state honors in 1934. Percy Clapp's last year when the Vikes nosed out Ripon, Beloit and Carroll.

Beloit has won two games, dropped one to Ripon and tied with Cornell. Lawrence has scored 57 points to 30 for opponents. Beloit has scored 45 to 26 for opponents.

Midwest standings follow:

|          | W. | L. | T. | Pts. | OP. | Pct.  |
|----------|----|----|----|------|-----|-------|
| Lawrence | 4  | 0  | 0  | 57   | 30  | 1.000 |
| Coe      | 3  | 1  | 0  | 68   | 38  | .750  |
| Beloit   | 2  | 1  | 1  | 45   | 26  | .625  |
| Cornell  | 1  | 1  | 1  | 32   | 26  | .500  |
| Knox     | 1  | 2  | 0  | 7    | 13  | .333  |
| Monmouth | 1  | 2  | 0  | 43   | 50  | .333  |
| Ripon    | 1  | 3  | 0  | 33   | 49  | .250  |
| Carleton | 0  | 3  | 0  | 20   | 71  | .000  |

Appleton honors this week go to Irvin Swamp, 326 S. Walter avenue, who picked two correct and missed on two by a point. He picked Marion-Manawa, 13-6, which incidentally was the score guessed correctly the greatest number of times, and Shawano over New London by 13-0. He missed by a point on Michigan over Illinois and Ohio State over New York U. Several other Appleton people had two correct scores but one or no misses by a point.

The other winners:
New London—A girl wins the honor at New London for the week. She's Irene Poepeke with Iowa State over Marquette and a miss by a point on Shawano-New London and Lake Forest-Beloit.

Little Chute—Jerry Lamers again. He must have at least a pair of ducks for that St. John-St. Catherine game a week from next Sunday. He picked Marion over Manawa and Shawano over New London.

Kaukauna—Cliff Kemp, phy ed instructor at the high school scores again but what to do with him? He doesn't have to pay to see Kaukauna games. He picked Green Bay East over Sheboygan North, 20 to 6, Shawano over New London and Notre Dame over Army.

Kimberly—Jim Fleweger wins on Marion over Manawa. And it'll clip this column and present it to Principal John Gerrits. He'll be added to tonight's homecoming game at Kimberly. Marion will be the opponent.

Clintonville—Mrs. Harvey Meyer of Marion scores again. She picked the Marion-Manawa score and Kaukauna over West DePere by 14 to 6.

Menasha—Max Novakofski keeps the honors in the clan this week. He picked East over Sheboygan North and Marion over Manawa.

Neeenah—Kermit and Kenneth Nelson, who have been real enthusiasts at Neeenah, tied with the Marion-Manawa score. Neeenah doesn't play at home any more but we'll see what we can do about the Neeenah-Menasha game as their reward.

During the last week we've had notes which indicated the writers didn't understand the rules of the contest. The greatest number of correct scores in a district win the award. If there is a tie, it is broken by deciding the winner on the basis of nearest correct scores—in practically every instance a miss by a point.

And here are the games for Nov. 5 and 6:

Valley Catholic Champs Prepare For Kaw Battle

St. Mary High Clinched Conference Title With St. Norbert Win

MENASHA—With the Fox Valley Catholic conference title safely tucked away for the second successive year, the St. Mary High school football team this week will start preparation for the final game of the season. The Zephyrs will meet Kaukauna High school, potential champions of the Northwestern Wisconsin conference, on Armistice day at Kaukauna.

The Zephyrs clinched their conference crown by going through four games without a defeat. They defeated St. John High school of Little Chute 13 to 0 and St. Norbert College High of DePere 26 to 0 in home games. At Little Chute they defeated the Flying Dutchmen by a 6 to 0 score.

Saturday at DePere they removed all doubt as to their championship qualifications by scoring a 26 to 6 victory over the Green Knights. The Zephyrs were held scoreless the first quarter but Picard caught two touchdown passes in the second quarter. Resch tossed one good for 58 yards and Laux tossed the other for 27 yards. Koerner kicked the second extra point to put the Zephyrs ahead 13 to 0 at the half.

Drive 51-Yards
The Zephyrs collected their third touchdown in the third period on a 51 yard drive. Resch went the last 30 yards in one play with some excellent blocking. DePere scored on the following kickoff when Hermans took the ball on his 5 yard line and went through the St. Mary team 95 yards for a touchdown. The touchdown was the first points scored against the Zephyrs in conference competition this season.

The St. Mary team collected its fourth touchdown on a 47 yard drive with Koerner and Resch doing most of the gaining. Schipferling capped the drive by going around end for the touchdown. Koerner kicked the extra point.

In addition to four conference victories the Zephyrs defeated Kimberly 36 to 12, tied Appleton High school 6 to 6 and lost to Neenah High school by a single point, 14 to 13. Neenah and Kaukauna played to a 6 to 6 tie early in the season.

The Zephyrs will have nearly two weeks to prepare for the game while Kaukauna faces a hard tilt against Menasha this Saturday. The extra week of preparation will allow the Zephyrs time to point for the last game. A victory over the Kaws would give St. Mary High school its most successful season in several years.

Al Hostak Risks Title Against Solly Krieger

Promoter Nate Druxman expects a bumper crowd of about 9,500 to watch the scheduled 15-rounder. The fight will start about midnight (C.S.T.).

It will be Hostak's first title defense since he won the crown by knocking out Freddie Steele of Tacoma in the first round here last July.

Krieger is a puncher who is at his best against punchers and is a distance fighter as well.

Seven Boys From Appleton, Little Chute, Kaukauna to Show

THE CARD
Jimmy Coyne, Fond du Lac, versus Henry Barber, Oconto, five rounds at 160 pounds.
Jimmy Pierce, Milwaukee, versus Oliver Kinney, Iron River, Mich., five rounds at 147 pounds.
Al Robbins, Oshkosh, versus Hoxey Lamers, Little Chute, three rounds at 140 pounds.

Frankie Elsch, Appleton, versus Arny Hermes, Little Chute, three rounds at 160 pounds.
Ray Wiese, Appleton, versus Leon Toonen, Appleton, three rounds at 122 pounds.

AN AMATEUR boxing program that will show seven boys from Appleton, Little Chute and Kaukauna, has been announced by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion for Thursday evening, Nov. 10 at Armory G. And just to make it really a Fox river valley card, the legion has two boys from Oshkosh and one from Fond du Lac. Two others are from Iron River, Mich., another from Oconto and the last from Milwaukee.

Although the windup shows class, most interest will be in the supporting bouts. Chippy Lutz, Appleton, will take on Ernie Passamani, Iron River, while Al Robbins, Oshkosh, who fought Dago Schuler last month, will tangle with Hoxey Lamers, Little Chute.

Dago Schuler, Kaukauna, has been paired with Eddie Troxel, Oshkosh, Frankie Elsch, Appleton, will make his first appearance here in more than a year against Arny "Froggie" Hermes, Little Chute, and Ray Wiese and Leon "Tuffy" Toonen, both of Appleton, will tangle in something of an Appleton feud.

Tickets for the card already are on sale, according to Legion officers, and will be found at the usual places. The reduced prices of the last year or two will continue.

Lombardi Is Most Valuable

Ernie Is First Red to Get National League Award

NEW YORK—(AP)—Following, as it usually does, the best hitter or the best pitcher in the league, the award for the most valuable player in the National League in 1938 goes to Ernie Lombardi, an Italian playing an American game in a German town.

The big Italian who catches for the Cincinnati Reds rolled up 229 points in the voting by the Baseball Writers' Association of America. He is the first Cincinnati player ever to win the title.

Lombardi has much to recommend him. He led the league in hitting with 342.

Ernie, or "Bosho" as they called him in his salad days at Brooklyn, was placed first on ten of the 24 ballots of the writers' voting committee, a fine percentage considering the opposition.

Lee Is Second

He was 63 points ahead of Bill Lee, the Chicago Cubs' hurler, who finished second. Lee was one of the main reasons for the Cubs' perky showing in the late season drive. He worked four days in a row the final week of the season. His 22nd victory of the year clinched the pennant for the Cubs.

Just behind Lee was Arky Vaughan, the Pittsburgh Pirates' shortstop and leading hitter.

Gabby Hartnett, the Cubs' catcher, Mace Brown, Pittsburgh relief hurler and McCormick all received votes for first place, though not with Lombardi's frequency. Ducky Medwick, last year's winner, didn't get one and wound up 11th.

Lombardi is 30 and lives in Oakland, Calif. His average is .320 for his eight years in the big show.

Champ Harness Horse Is Sold to Australian

Milwaukee—(AP)—The Raider, eight-year old champion double gated harness racehorse, has been sold to Edgar Tatlow of Tasmania, Australia, owner Michael Schneider announced yesterday. The price was not stated.

Schneider said Tatlow plans to race the Raider in Australia and return to the United States for the spring circuit meetings.

Former Star Booter Studying Art of Corner-Coffin Kicking

BY TED MEIER

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Armed with chalk, football and the flag, Frank Murray, University of Pennsylvania star booter of 1935 and '36, hopes to take up where the late LeRoy Mills of Princeton left off as professor of coffin-corner kicking.

Murray, who was taught by Mills, works out several times during the week at a local field. He comes on the field after practice is over with his footballs chalked to show how his boot hits them to start the punt. He sticks a flag at the 10-yard line, then proceeds to kick the footballs out of bound within the 10 and the goal line.

"I thought I knew something about kicking a football at Penn," he says. "But I'm just getting into the subject now. Why, the things that Mills knew and the results his theories bring when thoroughly applied are a field to themselves in this game."

"If I could take a boy with the natural poise for kicking, work him through a summer, he should be worth a good bit to his team by the first game that fall."

"The fundamentals of all three kicks—punt, placement and drop-kick—are the same. Murray declares: (1) balance, (2) aim, holding and eye on ball and (3) timing and coordination.

The type of kick is determined by the angle of the ball in meeting the foot.

Pittsburgh Linemen are Forgotten Members of Team

BY SID FEDER

(Pinch-hitting for Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK—(AP)—Funny how many blockers in our lives. . . . Incidentally, the forgotten men of the year are those guys on the Pitt line. . . . You never hear of 'em, but they really play for keeps. . . . Anybody know where Fred Russell, the old Red Sox and Syracuse pitcher, is? . . . We have an urgent request for his whereabouts.

One party we'd like to make is the Dec. 12 testimonial dinner to George Barton, Minneapolis Tribune sports editor, for his 35 years in the sports writing fraternity. . . . It shapes us as one of the outstanding events of its kind in north-west history. . . . Lou Little doesn't like that talk of Virginia being a "breather" for Columbia Saturday. . . . "Why, they might catch us out of breath instead," he points out. . . . And Fordham scouts report St. Mary's coming in from the coast this week end, has its best outfit in four or five years. . . . And might have taken California with a few breaks. . . .

There's a fellow down in Raleigh (N. C.) who calls himself Zodiac and picks football winners by the stars. . . . Took ten tough ones last week and hit 'em all right on the nose. Jack Corbett, the Syracuse baseball boss, is running the hot stove league now. . . . And has a swell idea for stream-lining the organization so any fan in the country will have an outlet for his ideas (or his beefs). . . . Dick Richards, Northwestern quarterback, and Claude York, Wisconsin halfback, who used to be buddies back at Sioux Falls, will be trying to take each other apart Saturday, when the Wildcats and the Badgers tangle.

Panthers Remain No. 1 Grid Squad In National Poll

Pitt Receives Highest Total Vote Recorded This Season

BY HUGH S. FULLETON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Since there's no chance for a battle of Giants between Pitt and Texas Christian this week—nor any other week this season—the No. 1 game on the program next Saturday is California versus Southern California.

That's taking them according to their current ratings in the weekly Associated Press poll. Pittsburgh's Golden Panthers remain far out in front of the field with T. C. U. as their nearest rival, supplanting beaten Minnesota as runner-up.

California is ranked third by a slim margin over Notre Dame. Pitt is the only other "first ten" team which meets a rival even mentioned in the voting by 115 sports writers.

Highest Vote

With more writers participating in the nation-wide poll than in previous weeks, the Panthers got their highest total vote so far. Of the 115 ballots, 105 gave first place to Pitt.

The first ten (points scored on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis, first-place votes in brackets):

| Team                | Points |
|---------------------|--------|
| Pittsburgh (105)    | 1,139  |
| Texas Christian (8) | 992    |
| California          | 692    |
| Notre Dame          | 674    |
| Dartmouth           | 620    |

Packers Leading Point Getters in Pro Football Loop

New York—(AP)—Apparently headed for a new record, the ten teams of the National Professional Football league have scored 999 points in their 35 games so far, to keep ahead of the pace set in 1937, when a mark of 1,424 points was established for the season.

Leading the scoring parade are the Green Bay Packers, Western division leaders who have piled up 168 points in eight games for an average of 21. Philadelphia and Cleveland, with 98 and 101, already have exceeded their 1937 totals, while Washington, New York and Brooklyn have better averages than they possessed a year ago.

The defending champion Washington Redskins continue to lead in ground gaining with an average of 301 yards for seven games, to Green Bay's 275 and the New York Giants 268. The Giants have the best rushing percentage, 61 completions in 117 attempts for 52 per cent.

Milwaukee—Happy with memories and proud of knockout victories over such foes as Babe Risko, Oscar Runkin and Frankie Battaglia and a decision over Jack Gibbons, young George Black, Milwaukee middleweight, is glad that he's through with professional boxing and settled down to his pre-medical studies at Marquette university here. He faces seven years of study for his degree.

War Admiral and 'Biscuit Clash

Famous Horses Scheduled To Race Today on Pimlico Track

Baltimore, Md.—(AP)—The paths of America's two greatest thoroughbreds cross for the first time at ancient Pimlico today when War Admiral and Seabiscuit, descendants of that mighty Man O' War, meet in their on again, off again match race.

Waiting the winner at the end of the mile and three-sixteenths is a check for $15,000 but far more important is the prestige to be gained through victory. The two principals in America's first major match race in 14 years, War Admiral from Samuel D. Riddle's fashionable Glen Riddle Farms and Seabiscuit, the Cinderella colt owned by Charles S. Howard of San Francisco, rightfully earned their right to be acclaimed champions of the turf.

Seabiscuit, an $8,000 Wheatley stable castoff in 1936, is bidding for second place among the world's leading money winning horses. Winner of $331,405 as the result of 31 victories, 12 seconds and 13 thirds in 83 starts during four years of campaigning from coast to coast, the Biscuit can jump ahead of the ill-fated Equipoise into a position to challenge Sun Beau's world record of $376,744.

War Admiral holds no such lofty position in the money winning record books but neither has he been so heavily campaigned as his west coast rival. The four-year-old, a year younger than the Biscuit, has been under colors only 22 times and has earned $257,050. An otherwise perfect record for the last two years was spoiled when he finished out of the money in last summer's Massachusetts handicap.

Goldberg Says He'll Be in Lineup Though His Leg Is Injured

Pittsburgh—(AP)—Hinge-hipped Marshall Goldberg, Pitt's All-American back who battered the Fordham line for two touchdowns Saturday despite an injured leg, promised today that "I'll be back" in the lineup Saturday when the golden Panther meets Carnegie Tech.

The gallant "Biggie," who won All-American honors in 1937 as a halfback, then swung into the full-back position this season, went to a hospital Sunday after the pain in his leg became so intense he called the team physician, Dr. Ralph Shannon.

"The pain is gone and my leg feels fine now. I guess all I needed was a little rest," said Marshall, but Dr. Shannon reserved his decision until after another examination today. The physician diagnosed the injury as a pulled muscle.

Scott Armstrong Will Play With All-Stars

Oshkosh—(AP)—Two of the highest scorers in the National Basketball league will appear at center this year for the Oshkosh All-Stars as a result of the signing today of Scott Armstrong, former Butler university star, who played the last two years with Fort Wayne, a team which recently relinquished its franchise. Armstrong joined the squad Monday. LeRoy Edwards of Oshkosh led the league in scoring last year and Armstrong was third.

Schommer hit 209. Tony Weyers scored a 555 series and 211 game and Gordon McHugh added a 211 game to the Special count.

Pegler Thinks Farley Sounds Funny Squeaking About Dewey

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The chickens never did roost too high for some of the friends of our Mr. James Farley, so it was indeed laughable of Mr. Farley to make grabs at his trunks and yell, "Ow! Keep your punches up!" when our Mr. Tom Dewey exposed the yeggman'ship of certain Democratic statesmen in Albany in one of his recitations last week. It was indeed laughable to all who used to know Mr. Farley as chairman of the cauliflower commission and see him on fight nights at the Garden sitting just around the corner from the gorillas who, by order of the commission, were supposed to be excluded from those cultural exercises.

In the interest of moral hygiene, Mr. Farley's commission had ruled that criminals were not to be admitted to any of the fight clubs, even as cash customers, but on glamorous nights in those dear, dear, dizzy days of old Mr. James, from his cathedra, would gaze about and scan the countenances of the very cream—or should one say the scum—of the New York underworld. Indeed (that's three times I have used that word; must watch), there came one grand gala when, with more than a million dollars in the house, there were three ex-convicts among the personal attendants of the tigers in the main event, all licensed by Mr. Farley's commission.

On such evenings Mr. Farley's place was in a special row reserved for certain of the more eminent yeggs from the hall—fine, home-loving gentlemen all, with callouses on their hands, not from humble toil, but from the handling of red-hot stoves in the routine of their daily life.

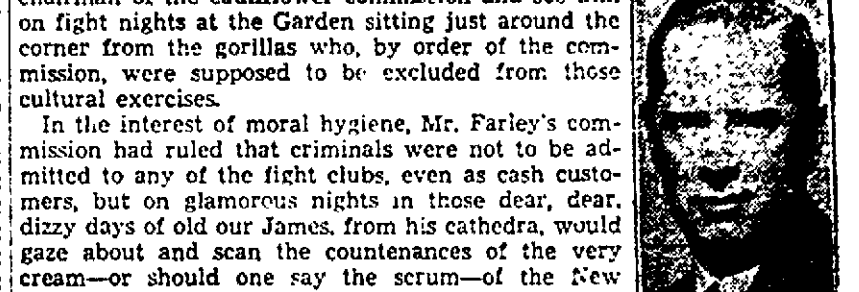

Mr. Farley has always been a man of liberal mind toward the hard realities of the world. He once explained that he lacked the cruelty to enforce his own regulations, which would have banished fallen men from pugilism, because, after all, they did have to live, and if every hand were turned against them and all doors barred they would be forced to resume a life of crime. For this I honor him, of course, but I think he should make that stand publicly and defend the propriety of yeggman'ship in politics in Albany on the ground that if yeggs be excluded from politics and pugilism they will have no alternative but crime of the most vulgar sort.

Pegler Wonders What Else Dewey Can Offer

Certainly it didn't take Mr. Dewey to discover that the gambling rights are regularly parceled out in the city of Saratoga Springs, so close to Albany that on quiet evenings the governor, in his palace, may hear the little mothball whir and click and the little cubes gambling on the green. In fact, gambling had become so important a part of the commerce of Saratoga Springs that when, last summer, through some political error, gambling was forbidden, some of the citizens formed a picket line to protest that their bread and butter was being taken away from them. There was much to their contention that gambling should be permitted, but the trouble was that it was against the law, a fact which necessitated the giving and taking of graft by politicians of the yegg type whom Mr. Dewey so piously deplores.

But even conceding the truth of all that Mr. Dewey says and his right to say it, I have been wondering whether Mr. Dewey has anything else on the ball. The job of governing New York is no mere matter of heaving yeggs out of petty office in local administrations, suppressing crap games and busting up rackets. For the most part those duties belong to the office of prosecutor, which Mr. Dewey now holds in New York. Mr. Dewey has not yet shown much appreciation of the greater issues, and Mr. Lehman has been one of the best governors of his time in the entire country.

On the careers to date I don't think it would be an even trade and, moreover, if it was such an urgent matter to get Mr. Dewey into the district attorneyship so short a time ago, the same evils would require that he stay there and finish a job he gave us to understand he alone was qualified to do. As to many matters in his new candidacy Mr. Dewey seems to say, "If you love me, dear, you'll trust me," and many a nice girl has regretted falling for that.

Armstrong Will Be Outweighed in Bout With Garcia

Welterweight Title on Block at New York Wednesday Night

BY DREW MIDDLETON

NEW YORK—(AP)—Sport's oldest cliché, the one about the good little man not being able to lick the good big man, has been dusted off to front for the title argument Wednesday night between Henry Armstrong the welterweight champion, and Ceferino Garcia, the scarred Filipino from Los Angeles.

It is most apt. Garcia is a good big man for a welterweight. He can fight middleweights without harm. Armstrong, who is as good a little man as you can find, has fought welterweights but no Garcias. He took the title from Barney Ross last spring but Ross never was a full-grown welterweight. He was a lightweight who fought best around 138.

Will Be Outweighed

Henry is even smaller. He weighed less than 135 for the Ross fight and the battle in which he took the lightweight title from Lou Ambers. Just a year ago, he was known as a very good featherweight. Now he is taking on a big, tough fellow who will outweigh him by ten or 12 pounds and who can hit and be hit by middleweights.

And Ceferino can pop 'em. He has a crazy right hand his manager calls the bolo punch that will drop a man nine times out of ten. He is strong, very willing and utterly without imagination. The only thing against him is he never has beaten a first class fighter.

The good big man says he will stand off and smack Henry dizzy with his bolo punch. His manager, George Parnassus says he will do it in seven rounds or less.

Says Henry:

"Well, he can throw that punch all he wants. He can hit a guy with it if the fellow stands off and lets himself be hit. I don't stand off, I move. I'm hard to hit, because I'm moving. All this talk about him doing the hitting—I'll get in a couple myself."

Europe from 1918 to 1938
HITLER BECOMES A DICTATOR

Adolf Hitler did not "learn his lesson" by being kept in prison for eight months. Quite the opposite! In prison he brooded more and more, and started writing a book called "Mein Kampf." The English meaning of the title is "My Fight" or "My Battle."

"Mein Kampf" is Hitler's story of why he believes as he does. The volume became a kind of "campaign text-book," and today it may be called "Germany's Bible."

Reading Hitler's words, or listening to one of his speeches, we can see the fire which drives him on. He has the idea that Fate chose him to unite the German people, and to lead them to a place of power and yet more power.

From the first, Hitler tried to do two things—to make the public more angry about the Treaty of Versailles, and to spur them to hatred of the Jews. With this two-edged sword, he fought the enemy and won votes.

Hitler also built up an army of a sort. The members came to be called "Brown Shirts" or "Storm Troopers." From time to time, the Storm Troopers took part in fist fights, also fights in the street with bullets. Their special enemies were Jews, Marxist Socialists and Communists.

The business slump which started in 1929 gave Hitler his greatest help. Hundreds of thousands of Germans lost their jobs. "It's the Jews and the Marxists," said Hitler, "who are to blame for your troubles," and there were too many people who believed his words.

In 1930 the National Socialists polled about 6,500,000 votes. This did not give them full power in the German Reichstag, but they obtained 107 members.

Hitler's party made other strong records in elections, but it is well to remember this fact: Never once did he have the votes of as many as half of the German people before he took power over his country.

An old and feeble man, President von Hindenburg, did not like Hitler personally, but at last gave in to him, and let him take charge of public affairs. Hitler soon became far more powerful than Hindenburg.

By the first day of July, 1933—only five months after he took office—Hitler was the dictator of Germany. He had destroyed all political parties except his own. He had broken up labor unions. He had made laws against the Jews, and had allowed his Storm Troopers to be cruel in many ways toward Jewish citizens. Later he opened a drive against Catholics and Lutherans.

Dictators seem to need new reasons to make the people excited. Hitler built up the regular German army somewhat before he made a bold move to break the Treaty of Versailles. Tomorrow we shall speak of the success he met.

Proposed Law on Tree Planting May Get Vote Tonight

Commission Measure Calls For Appointment of City Forester

Kaukauna—If the common council approves an ordinance brought before them at its last meeting, when it meets again tonight, Kaukauna property owners will be under a system intended to beautify the city by regulating the planting and removal of trees. The ordinance is a project of the recently created city planning commission, and was introduced to the council Oct. 18 by Secretary A. R. Mill.

Under this measure a city officer, to be known as the city forester, would be appointed. The state statutes provide that in tree planting measures the official in charge be appointed by the park board or a similar body. As the council abolished the park board some time ago, the selection of the forester probably would be left to the city planning commission.

The most important parts of the proposed ordinance provide the city forester with the power to regulate the planting and removal of trees on public highways and on public property. The measure goes further than most such enactments in also providing that the city forester may, on ten days notice, order the removal of any tree on private property on account of injurious insects, plant diseases or for endangering public works. No damages will be paid to the property owners.

May Order Trimming

The forester may order the trimming of trees so that the lowest branches are ten feet above the ground, and the entire cost of such trimming will be charged to the lot or parcel of land which abuts on the street, avenue or boulevard where the work is done.

In order to plant trees a written permit must be obtained. Application blanks will be distributed by the forester, with the entire work contemplated to be submitted to him for approval.

Another question up for the councilmen's consideration is that of a heating plant for Legion hall. A Legion committee appeared at the last meeting and asked that a worn out boiler be replaced. When the city turned the hall over to the Legion post the city agreed to pay for light, heat and water, it was argued, and thus should pay for any repairs. Nine organizations meeting in the building, the committee brought out, in addition to the Legion. The building and grounds committee inspected the building Sunday and will report to the council tonight.

Fathers and Sons Dinner Planned at Evangelical Church

Kaukauna—The annual fathers and sons' banquet of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed church will be held at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening in the church basement. The Rev. John Scheib, minister, announced this morning. ### WPA Sidewalk Crew Completes Work on Project at School

Kaukauna—The north side WPA sidewalk crew has completed the Holy Cross school project and is now working in front of Brokaw Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, Road Chairman Jule Mertes said today. All sidewalk work must be finished by Nov. 8 under WPA regulations. Forty men are on the church job. After Nov. 8 the Straburg sewer project will be started, and 60 men from the north and south side crews transferred there.

The church and Monument square project was ordered in by the council, and thus takes precedence over requests of private property owners. Due to the limited time left sidewalk construction this fall will be confined to the church and square job.

Kaukauna Hopes For League Title At Stake Saturday

Win Over Menasha Team Will Mean Championship for Kaws

Kaukauna — Kaukauna high school footballers took things easy yesterday but today start preparations in earnest for Saturday's crucial tilt against Menasha.

If Kaukauna wins, Coach Paul E. Little's eleven will have its fourth championship in seven years, while if the team loses in all probability Shawano will retain its crown for another year. The Kaws have won four games, from Clintonville, New London, West De Pere and Shawano, and tied one with Neenah. Shawano has tied none and lost only to Kaukauna, so a Kaukauna defeat Saturday would give the Indians the edge, due to Kaukauna's 6 to 6 battle with Neenah. The game will end the conference season of the Kaws, while Shawano has yet to play Clintonville and West De Pere, both of which should fall before the Indians.

Menasha Is Tough

Little warned the players yesterday that the Menasha contest would be the toughest of the season, excepting none, and that the Kaws would have to be at top form to come out ahead. After dropping a 26 to 6 game to Shawano, Menasha has been the most rapidly improving team in the conference, defeating Clintonville, West De Pere and New London. The Caldemerons won all three games by larger margins than the Kaws could compile against the same opponents.

Some of the Kaws were roughed up a bit last Saturday, but all are expected to be ready for Saturday's kickoff. The Menashians always bring a large following with them and the year's biggest crowd is anticipated. The visitors will be out to get revenge for last year's 6 to 0 defeat suffered in the season's final game on their home field.

Kaukauna Halloween Celebration Most Innocent in Years

Kaukauna—With hundreds of the city's young people attending a Halloween party at the high school gymnasium, Kaukauna passed through its most innocent celebration in years last night. Not more than half a dozen complaints were looked into, police reported this morning.

The most ambitious of those who simply must move things on Halloween night dragged a telephone pole across Wisconsin avenue in front of the M. A. Wertheimer residence. A truck driven by William Flynn, 713 Draper street, was damaged as it struck the obstacle.

Dance Is Popular

Outside of this major operation, funsters were content with giving windows their customary soaping, and putting as much distance as was possible between all manner of signs and their owners.

The high school dance was sponsored by the athletic council, under the chairmanship of Fay Posson, and was designed, under a plan successful in other cities, to provide a sane outlet for youthful enthusiasms. It went over well last night and probably will be made an annual affair.

Don't Marry The Man

—By Jeanne Bowman—

Refreshed by the ice cold water, her hair brought to a semblance of order by a wet comb; her lips freshly rubbed and a powder puff rubbed across a nose fast freckling without Toinette's care, Kathleen joined MacDonald.

Young Donald, appraising her, laughed suddenly. "I'm sorry, I was just thinking of the way you looked that night on the road."

Kathleen laughed with him, confessed to her near hysteria when she saw herself in the hotel mirror and admitted she had vowed undying hatred when he'd found the bolts she'd been unable to find.

"Then you admit there is an improvement?" she asked.

"If you were a blonde or brunette, I'd call for a chaperone," he assured her.

Kathleen stiffened, then relaxed. "I asked for that. Did you mention food?"

Seated on a boulder in the shade of a cottonwood tree, a stream rushing over colored rocks at one side, the road and high cliffs on the other, Kathleen thought of all of the wonderful places she had dined on two continents and wondered why this seemed more wonderful than any of them.

MacDonald made an interesting companion. She liked to look at him; liked the quick smile, the flash of white teeth under the small black moustache, the way his hair grew back off a tanned forehead, the heavy dark brows which didn't shade the compelling glance of his Scotch blue eyes.

There was magic in this painted valley. Perhaps it was the passionate hurry of the stream; the hot brush of the autumn sun on her cheek when she ventured from the shade; or the clear, exhilarating air. She couldn't name it, only feel it and thrill to it.

Munich Accord Leaves U. S. on Its Own in Western Hemisphere

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—This country has not even begun to grasp the domestic significance of the defense program which has been made imperative by Germany's sudden domination of Europe and the breakdown of Great Britain as the unofficial, but very real, policeman of the world.

With Munich a new world was born. In that Caesarian operation, a huge chunk of world power changed hands. It passed from the democratic bloc led by Britain to the authoritarian bloc led by Germany. How this epochal shift of power has suddenly left the United States, I described in several dispatches last week. In a word, Britain has been our first line of defense. Britain, almost as much as the United States, has stood firmly for the status quo on the western hemisphere. Now she is no longer able to serve forcefully in that role. Britain dares not use her fleet now against the wish of Hitler, for fear he will blow the British Isles out of the water from the air. We are now on our own in protecting the western hemisphere.

That fundamental transfer of the seat of power, from London to Berlin, necessitates internal changes in our present political issues, and the partisan bickering over New Deal measures, seem like trivial nursery babbles. For world events that are far more powerful than Roosevelt on any individual, are now about to tell us what we have to do. We may not like some of the things that these events will command us to do.

Last week the utilities industry agreed to embark upon a gigantic expansion program. The expansion will take place, not entirely as private enterprise desires, but in sections where the government says it is necessary for national defense. War industry needs adequate power and it is the war department, together with federal power commission experts, who are telling the utility people where enlarged facilities are needed. The RFC will help finance the undertakings. Similarly in many other ways our industrial machinery will have to be shaped, not alone as private enterprise would wish, but as national defense needs require.

Dynamic Defense Is Necessary For Safety

New ideas of national defense have come out of the Munich affair. Adequate defense is now seen to mean infinitely more than merely adding battleships, cruisers, destroyers, airplanes, coast defense guns, and such equipment to our store of defense material. We have tended to consider defense as a static affair, in terms of the number of pieces of equipment and the number of men on hand ready for action.

Germany has taught us that static defense is inadequate. We need dynamic defense. That means that our defense preparation must be considered as a going concern, as a producing organization able to provide adequate expansion and replacement. The rate of production of war material is as important as the quantity on hand. Preparedness must now be judged not only by the size of our inventory, but by the rate of production.

Not only did Germany have more planes than England and France, her airplane factories were capable of turning out replacement planes far more rapidly than the other two powers. France and Britain had an air force that was practically static. French labor troubles had slowed down the production rate. Germany had an air force that was dynamic because behind it was a highly-gearred, mass production aviation industry.

Ability Of Democracy To Survive Is Tested

This point, the importance of a dynamic preparedness machine as against a static collection of military and naval inventories, is the key to what will be proposed here next winter. It means internal industrial defense, an integrated machine, working in closest collaboration with the government, and protected against labor breakdowns. It means raw material supplies must be protected.

Our problem is how to achieve this without going into fascism. Hitler integrated his machine by establishing an authoritarian government. Democrats have been unable to match him in preparation, even with their infinitely greater resources, because they lacked the efficient industrial integration. Britain and France knew Germany was rearming but they could not compete.

We have the lesson of Britain and France. It still is up to us to demonstrate that democracy can work and protect itself. What Hitler achieves by compulsion, we must achieve by voluntary methods, using our common-sense and self-restraint, and by rising in a spirit of national unity. The test proved too severe for democracy in France and England. The ability of democracy to survive in this world of modern desperado is now put to the test—right here in America.

New London Compares Favorably With Other Cities, Helms Says

Helms in a talk before the Rotary club at the Elwood hotel yesterday noon. Mr. Helms reviewed figures and data on the subject which he made public on several occasions last year.

After the talk the club, on motion by Fay R. Smith, unanimously voted its approval of the administration of the board of education and superintendent. Members expressed their confidence in the ability of the body to operate the schools economically on a sound business basis.

The speaker followed the trend of costs and taxes in relation to the schools during the last 16 years and pointed out the great progress in methods and facilities and the comparatively smaller increase in costs. In cost per pupil and assessed valuation per pupil, New London schools compare most favorably with other cities of the same size, he pointed out.
